Pontiff Asks Unity for Future of Human Race

Appeals to Leaders of All Religions to Join In Mutual Understanding

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
BOMBAY, India (AP) — Pope Paul VI met today with leaders of ancient oriental religions and told them all men must "begin to work together to build the common future of the human race."

Marking a new dimension in the outlook of the Roman Catholic Church, the Pope asked the sages of Hinduism, Islam, Buddhism, Zoroastrianism and other non-Christian faiths: "Are we not all one in this struggle for a better world, in this effort to make available to all people those goods which are needed to fulfill their human destiny and to live lives worthy of the children of God?"

He paused, then added: "We must come closer together. We must come together with our hearts, in mutual understanding, esteem and love."

On this, the second day of his historic four-day visit to India, where the Pope is being received with a welcome of phenomenal enormity and zest, he also had meetings with leaders of other Christian bodies.

His callers at the residence of Bombay's Roman Catholic archbishop included bishops and officials of the Church of South India, a historic merger involving about a million Protestants of formerly separate communions.

Also present for conversations initiated by the Pope were representatives of the ancient Mar Thoma Syrian Church, the Methodist Church in Southern Asia, the Anglican Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon, the Evangelical Lutheran Federation, the North India Provincial Synod Methodist Church, and the National Christian Council of India.

The personal meetings with these churchmen, too, reflected the theme of Rome's modified stance — to make common cause and unifying overtures toward Christians outside the Roman Catholic fold.

Small Gatherings

In this region of the world inter-Christian alliance takes on heightened ramifications. For Roman Catholics constitute only

Nebraska Senator, Counsel Clash at Bobby Baker Quiz

Curtis Assails McLendon for Charging Sen. Williams Lied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The word of it," McLendon said Bobby Baker hearings exploded. "There is not an ounce, not an into a shouting match today. element of truth in it."

Curtis continued to demand counsel Lennox P. McLendon, from his post as special counsel calling Sen. John J. Williams, a white-haired 74-year-old attorney.

Williams had said that he had told McLendon he had additional information about government contracts handled by the McCloskey Construction Co.

But, he said, McLendon was not interested in pursuing the information unless it involved Baker and other figures in the current hearing.

Curtis Angered
That's when the explosion came.

"Just a minute," shouted Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb. "This is an impertinence such as I have never before seen. This is the first time an employee of the Senate has called a senator a liar."

"He has disqualified himself," Williams interjected that he also made such a statement on last Friday.

Nelson Cites Necessity for Shared Taxes

Over $2 Billion U. S. Funds Available, Senator Declares

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said Wednesday the states are facing increasing financial problems and that President Johnson's proposal to share federal tax revenues with the states deserves serious consideration.

Addressing a dinner meeting of the Council of State Governments, Nelson said, "The harsh fact is that the states are facing real and increasing financial problems which cry out for imaginative solutions."

Nelson added that he had not made up his own mind on Johnson's proposal, which would return a percentage of federal tax levies to the states for unrestricted use. The senator said the plan would initially make $2 billion to $3 billion available to the states annually, but the figure would expand with the economy.

Distribution Problem
One of the problems in the plan, Nelson said, would be a distribution formula. He said it had been suggested that the funds be allocated on a straight per capita basis.

Nelson said, however, that "careful consideration" should be given to a formula which would recognize a state's own effort to meet its responsibilities, and that such a formula should take into account each state's tax burden.

"It is simply untrue," Nelson said, that state governments are becoming less important as the federal government grows in influence.

State Governments
"State governments are not withering away — they are flourishing," Nelson said.

"The simple fact," he continued, "is that state governments are more important to democracy today than at any time since the federal Constitution was written."

"They have many times greater responsibilities today in educating the young, hospitalizing the sick and mentally ill, maintaining law and order, controlling traffic, building highways, regulating trucks, utilities and insurance companies and conserving natural resources."

Peron Back in Spain to Resume Political Exile

SEVILLA, Spain (AP) — Juan D. Peron resumed his exile in Spain today after a brief and unsuccessful attempt to re-establish himself in South America for return to Argentina, the nation that cast off his dictatorship in 1955.

Brazil blocked Peron's plan and shipped him back on the same Iberia DC8 jet airliner that carried him from Madrid to Rio de Janeiro Wednesday.

The reaction of the Spanish government was uncertain. Peron's back-to-Argentina campaign could be interpreted as a violation of one of the terms of his asylum, a pledge to avoid political activity. But officials in Madrid said they understood he would be allowed to remain temporarily, "until a definite decision is reached."

Knowles Wants Legislature To Defer New College Plans

Governor-Elect Suggests 'Master Plan' for State Education Needs

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov.-Elect Warren P. Knowles probably will ask the legislature next month to defer approval of new state-supported institutions of higher learning, pending completion of a "master plan" for Wisconsin higher education, that he believes may suggest significant departures from the present system.

At an impromptu press conference Wednesday night, Knowles declined to say specifically he will oppose the suggested new four-year state university in the Fox Valley area, but it was an inevitable deduction from his statement.

Knowles elaborated to reporters his worries, doubts and questions about the evolution of higher education programs and their exploding costs after he had spent three hours reviewing with Angus Rothwell, state superintendent of public instruction, the enormously increased operating fund and state school aid requests of that department.

The man who will take over the governorship next month and will recommend a fiscal program for the state for the next two years, indicated clearly he is troubled by heavy pressures for what he called more "brick and mortar" expenditures for new institutions at new locations, and said he is not yet convinced that the total educational need of the state or the major interests of Wisconsin will be best served in that direction.

At one point he said flatly: "We don't have the money." When he was reminded that virtually all recent higher education plant financing has been

BY TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Election of the first African Negro to be president of the U.N. General Assembly climaxes the rise of a once minor bloc to the most powerful voting force in the United Nations.

The choice of Ghana's Alex Quaison-Sackey, flamboyant champion of black nationalism, opened an assembly session that will focus largely on African issues.

Quaison-Sackey declared in his inaugural speech Tuesday that Africa "is steadily moving toward her determined goal of continental unity and total liberation."

This will be the African theme when the 115-nation assembly turns again to the stormy issues of white supremacy in South Africa.

The African bloc has grown from 2 nations to 34 in 19 years. It is teaming up with the 25-nation Asian bloc to pressure South Africa to abandon its apartheid policy of racial segregation.

"These Africans with the help they get from Asia and the Soviet bloc could get about anything they want if they would stop bickering among themselves," a Western diplomat commented recently.

Ready to Help North Viet Nam

Brezhnev Denounces Paratroops' Landing

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party chief, denounced today the Western paratroop landing in the Congo and also said the Soviet Union is ready to help North Viet Nam.

But, in reiterating stands already taken by the Kremlin, Brezhnev withheld any specific pledge of direct Soviet intervention in either area.

He called the paratroop landing in the Congo a "surprising example of imperialist piracy" and said Western aims there are doomed to failure.

Can't Be Indifferent
On Viet Nam, he repeated the words of an "authorized statement" made a week ago by the official Soviet news agency Tass:

"The Soviet Union cannot remain indifferent to the fate of a sister Socialist country and is prepared to render the necessary assistance to her." There was no elaboration by either Tass or Brezhnev.

Brezhnev spoke at a Soviet-

Czechoslovak friendship meeting honoring visiting Czech President Antonin Novotny.

Brezhnev stressed that "the unity of the Socialist camp is strong against imperialism in the cause of peace and for the benefit of all mankind."

Brezhnev again denounced the proposed NATO multilateral nuclear force as "a dangerous game" to give West Germany access to nuclear weapons. Here he made his only mention of Red China, saying: "Recently the Chinese have joined this view."

Nuclear Arms Ban

Apparently he was referring to Peking's proposal for a world disarmament meeting, made after Red China exploded its first atom bomb.

For the Communist camp, he went on, "Our most important aim is to achieve a complete ban on nuclear weapons."

On the Congo, Brezhnev said "Lately the world learned of a new aggressive act by the colonizers."

He said Belgian paratroopers were transported to the Congo in U.S. planes with full approval of other NATO countries in "a surprising example of imperialist piracy."

2 East German Guards Caught as They Try To Flee Over Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Two East German border guards were caught by their Communist comrades early today as they tried to escape over the Berlin wall, West Berlin police reported.

Two guards discovered the pair hiding near the border fortifications in the north of the city. Apparently they were waiting for a chance to climb over to West Berlin.

The guards who found them fired several rounds from sub-machine guns, and the alarm brought 30 other guards to the scene. As West Berlin police and a detachment of French gendarmes appeared, the East Germans set off tear gas grenades to obscure the Westerners' vision.

When the smoke had cleared, one of the two captives was being carried away, apparently wounded. The other was led off.

India's Prime Minister Starts Visit in London

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India arrived today for a three-day visit to London, his first to the Western world.

His first official call was an audience with Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace. Then he had lunch with Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Shastri is seeking British backing for a new Indian campaign for a total ban on atomic weapons to counter the Communist Chinese nuclear threat. Reliable informants said India would launch the campaign formally in a resolution to the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

Indian sources indicated Shastri also plans to seek more British economic assistance.

South Vietnamese Envoy Tells Of Activity of Northern Troops

BY SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Viet Nam sent 30,000 to 40,000 infiltrators into South Viet Nam during the past three years and the flow continues at a stepped-up pace, Ambassador Tran Thien Khien said today.

The newly arrived South Vietnamese envoy said in an exclusive interview that the Ho Chi Minh Trail, passing from North Viet Nam through Laos, serves as the main road of infiltration.

Military Expert

Khien, bespectacled 39-year-old soldier trained by the French and Americans, is a lieutenant general who has served as commander-in-chief of the South Vietnamese armed forces and as his country's minister of defense.

How to stop the infiltration has been a perpetual worry of the Vietnamese general staff, Khien said in the interview. He added: "We have been thinking about this for a long time and we are still thinking. If we are not able to stop the infiltration completely, at least it must be slowed down."

mountainous terrain which is hard to control."

Asked if stopping the infiltration would be decisive in turning the tide of battle in South Viet Nam, Khien replied: "We do think that if we can succeed in stopping the infiltration it will have a very large impact."

The problem of infiltration was touched upon in a White House statement Tuesday which followed a White House meeting between President Johnson and U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor. It said there was "accumulating evidence of continuing and increased North Vietnamese support of the Viet Cong and of North Vietnamese forces in, and passing through, the territory of Laos in violation of the Geneva accords of 1962."

The State Department said Wednesday that the evidence of North Vietnamese support and infiltration into South Viet Nam

Lawrence Gets $36,140 Grant For Institute

Plan Botany School
Science Foundation

A $36,140 grant from the National Science Foundation has been given to Lawrence University to establish a summer institute in botany for high school teachers.

The institute will be held for seven weeks in the summer of 1965, under the direction of Dr. Bradner Coursen, assistant professor of biology.

It is expected that 30-high-school-biology teachers will attend, receiving eight semester hours of credit. Teachers enrolled in the institute will receive full tuition and maintenance support through $25,000 of the grant.

Institute Faculty
The faculty of the institute, in addition to Dr. Coursen, will be: Dr. James R. Brennan, Bridgewater, Mass.; State College; Dr. Donald A. Eggert, Southern Illinois University; Dr. John A. Schmitt, Ohio State University; Dr. Alfred S. Sussman, University of Michigan; Dr. Beatrice M. Sweeney, Yale University; Dr. Paul D. Voth, University of Chicago; Dr. Charles Heimisch, Miami University; Dr. Ralph H. Wetmore, Harvard University; and Dr. Joe H. Cherry, Purdue University. There will be additions to the list before summer.

Purpose of the institute is to give already experienced teachers of biology a revitalized knowledge of botany. In late years it has been observed that numbers of college graduates entering botany as a profession has been considerably lower proportionately than in other areas of science.

Few students elect botany at the college level, partially because they have not been exposed to it in high school, where many biology teachers are primarily zoologists.

This institute, and others like it, aims to stimulate student interest in botany by increasing the competence of biology teachers.

State Auditing Packers' Tax

Some Players Pay
Played in Wisconsin

The state department of taxation has confirmed it is in the process of auditing state income tax returns of a number of Green Bay Packer players and indicated it has sent notices of additional payment to several individuals.

W. C. Maass, assistant commissioner of taxation, said a routine audit of tax returns of players with legal residence outside the state resulted in some notices being sent.

"We presently audit all state income tax returns, but we are particularly interested in non-residents to determine what per cent of their income is taxable to Wisconsin," Maass said.

The tax official said the audit has not been completed and the Appleton district office of the department is continuing a check of Packer returns.

State Law
Maass said the problem involved state law which assesses taxes only on income earned in Wisconsin. For residents of the state, this is no problem, Maass said, but, in some cases such as athletes, some confusion does arise.

Maass explained Packers with legal residence in other states can be taxed only for that portion of their income earned while actually playing football in Wisconsin.

"For example, if a non-resident plays half his games in Wisconsin, 50 per cent of his income is taxable in Wisconsin," Maass said. Games played out of state are not subject to state taxation.

Number of Games
Thus, the official went on, the department must determine the number of games a specific player took part in and what percentage of his total salary was earned in these games.

"Then we have the problem of additional games, such as the championship," Maass said. "Any money earned in a championship game is taxable in Wisconsin only if the game was played in Wisconsin."

Maass also indicated possible cases of overreporting and said refunds would be made.

Legislature Asked to Defer Education Plans

5 The state must be careful to avoid long-term and costly commitments in education "on the basis of local or provincial interests."

Unexpected Talk

In an unexpected and wide-ranging talk with reporters at the close of a day when he got the most graphic evidence to date of the enormity of his budget balancing problem, the governor-elect made these points:

1. He has not yet decided definitely, but he is strongly inclined to ask the legislature to set up a special high-grade commission for a new and objective mission for the entire post-high school education service need of the state and the best direction in which it should evolve.

2. He is inclined to believe that planning so far has not given enough emphasis to the needs of the 60 per cent of high school graduates who do not go to college, or to the 50 per cent of those who enroll at college, but drop out for a variety of reasons.

3. He wants a study of the feasibility of a system of local or area junior colleges, which could be joined with local technical training programs for high school graduates not interested in liberal arts studies.

Better Use of Buildings

4. Because of the pressures upon the tax system, there will be required a more efficient use of school plants in the future, through longer school terms including a 12-month course, and it with his advisors, officials of universities, and perhaps higher educational programs, and members and leaders of the legislature.

Knowles made little progress when he sought the advice of Rothwell.

The state superintendent is chairman of the Coordinating Committee and reminded Knowles that group had proposed the establishment of a new four-year school in the Fox Valley and another in the Racine-Kenosha area later, be use cause its studies of enrollment pressures clearly show such institutions would be needed soon in those populous districts.

Close Advisers To Pope Expert In Diplomacy

Will Accompany Pontiff on Trip To Indian Talks

BY EUGENE LEVIN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul's two closest advisers on his trip to India are an expert on modern diplomacy and a scholar with a knowledge of ancient Hindu Sanskrit writings. Both are princes of the Roman Catholic Church.

The two cardinals are Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state, and Eugene Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals.

Cardinal Cicognani, 81, is the No. 2 man at the Vatican. As secretary of state he is something of a combined prime minister and foreign minister. He also served in that post for Pope John XXIII.

Envoy to U. S.

A white-haired, soft-voiced man, Cardinal Cicognani served for a quarter of a century in Washington, D.C., as the apostolic delegate — or envoy — to the United States. His name "Amleto" is Italian for hamlet.

An Indian official will find Cardinal Cicognani fluent in the English language they generally use.

In Cardinal Tisserant — a brilliant, 80-year-old Frenchman — the Indians will find a scholar versed in the ancient Sanskrit language of Hindu religious books and literature.

Cardinal Tisserant, a powerfully built man with a flowing iron-gray beard, spent many years in the Middle East as a young priest. He once rode horseback from Jerusalem to Baghdad.

Years of Traveling

During his years of travels he learned Hebrew, Syriac, Sanskrit, Arabic, Amharic and Armenian.

He has been a leading figure in the Roman Catholic Church for more than a quarter of a century, a cardinal since 1936.

The two cardinals will travel with the Pope to Bombay by jetliner Wednesday.

One other cardinal from the Vatican Curia has a major role in the Pope's four-day trip. He is Gregory Cardinal Agagianian, prefect of the Vatican congregation directing the Church's missionary activities.

Cardinal Agagianian arrived in Bombay last week as the Pope's legate to the international eucharistic congress. The 69-year-old Armenian prelate is foremost experts on the Soviet Union and communism. As legate he represents the Pope at all congress sessions which the pontiff does not attend.

Convict Lends Aid To State Legislator

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP) — Star Caywood, a state legislator from Walsenburg, locked his keys in his automobile while on a visit to the state prison with other legislators Wednesday.

But expert help was close at hand. Warden Harry Tinslev sent for a prisoner with considerable experience in dealing with locks. Caywood had his keys in less than 15 minutes.

Favorite Apple Pie Wins Crown for Menasha Woman

Homemaker Developed Flair in Years Feeding Pie-Loving Family

BY LILLIAN MCKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

A Menasha homemaker who has developed a flair over the years for making apple pie — her family's favorite dessert — Wednesday baked her way to state fame and the title "Queen for a Day in Appleton U. S. A."

She is Mrs. Robert Mott, 318 Willow Lane, Menasha, whose two-crust pie with its apple "appliance" top won over seven other entries in the state apple pie contest judged in the kitchens of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. Each of the contestants was a winner of a preliminary contest in her home county. Mrs. Mott representing Winnebago.

The contest was one of the featured events of the 96th annual convention in Appleton this week of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society, Wisconsin Berry Growers Association. The horticultural and apple growers' groups together with the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, the Cooperative Extension Service and Appleton Chamber of Commerce sponsored the pie baking contest.

Pie Judges

Judges were Norbert F. Pfeiffer, vice president and technical production adviser for Elm Tree Bakery, Miss Mary-Beth Kuester, home economist of the power firm, and Miss Doris Staidl, Green Bay consumer marketing agent. Miss Georgia Wilson, food editor for the state agricultural department, was in charge.

Contestants from the other seven participating counties were Mrs. Alvin M. Sasman, route 2, Black Creek, Outagamie winner; Mrs. Michael Barnow, sky, route 1, Baileys Harbor, after 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in a two-car head-on collision on W. Winnebago Street near the school.

Appleton Memorial Hospital authorities said two of the injured were admitted and four were treated and released Wednesday. Two said they would see family physicians to determine injuries.

At the hospital in good condition are Michael Gibbons, 16, 2422 N. Richmond St., and Judith K. Winkel, 17, 700 E. Byrd St.

Appleton police said the accident occurred when a car which had been purchased shortly before the accident from a used car dealer, and being driven by Spott Swamer, 17, 1025 E. Harding St., was turning onto W. Winnebago Street and slid into a car being driven by Miss Winkel.

In Swamer Car Injured in the Swamer car were Gibbons, with back, wrist and leg injuries, Swamer and Ronald Schub, 17, 4801 N. Ballard Road. Swamer and Schub were not hospitalized and were checked over by their family doctors.

Treated and released from the hospital were these passengers from Miss Winkel's car: Jean Schanke, 17, 420 E. Murray St.; leg injury; Denise Priestmore, 17, 2000 N. McDonald St., knee injury; Vicki Wilson, 17, 1108 N. Union St., knee injury; and Nancy Taylor, 17, 1024 E. Glendale Ave., leg injury.

Not Restricted School authorities today said the students were out of school on their lunch hours at the time of the accident and are not restricted from driving their cars in the school area during that time.

The injured were taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance Service.

Judging Was Not an Easy Task at the state apple pie contest Wednesday afternoon. There were eight pies, plain and fancy, all baked by county winners throughout the state. One had a streusel topping, another a cheese meringue. One was trimmed with apple-shaped cheese cut-outs, almonds set in attractive poinsettia design decorated still another. Here the three judges take their time testing and tasting in the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. kitchens. They are, from the left, Miss Doris Staidl, Green Bay, area consumer marketing agent; Norbert F. Pfeiffer, vice president and technical production adviser of Elm Tree Bakery; and Miss Mary-Beth Kuester, power company home economist. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Urge Merger of Agriculture Groups

Apple Growers Are Advised to Join With Horticulture Society

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Mergers and united efforts by agriculture are as essentially like sitting down to a meal at a table, said D. N. McDowell, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, as he urged the Wisconsin Horticultural Society to seriously consider the proposed merger with the Wisconsin Apple Institute.

Speaking before the 96th annual convention in Appleton, McDowell said while attending a conference of state departments directors from the North Central states the scope of the bare-lapped export business was brought to mind.

Both the society and Wisconsin Apple Institute will consider that prompted Mrs. Mott to enter the Winnebago contest. She was a reluctant competitor, she reports, but her husband kept pushing her into it. He is her severest critic, she says, and he finally talked her into it.

Actually it was family backing that prompted Mrs. Mott to enter the Winnebago contest. She was a reluctant competitor, she reports, but her husband kept pushing her into it. He is her severest critic, she says, and he finally talked her into it.

Not Always Same Her apple pie is not always made exactly the same, she reports, because she enjoys experimenting. Besides, her family likes pie plain, with generous wedges of Wisconsin cheddar cheese or sometimes with a "dollop of ice cream."

gining to think in terms of producing products for other than the immediate season. "All are tuning in to marketing aspects," he said.

Selling Aspects McDowell pounded hard on the marketing, merchandising and selling of food aspects of agriculture. Impulse buying is a challenge to the industry, he said. Surveys showed, he said, that most housewives shop two or three times a week.

About 50 per cent of them do so without a prepared list and are highly influenced by im-

Lad Uninjured After Sliding Into School Bus

LITTLE CHUTE — Dean Thon, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Thon, route 4, Appleton, escaped injury about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday when he darted into the road and slid against a tire of a moving bus. He was checked and X-rayed by local physicians who reported no injuries. He was taken home by police.

Ban Appleton Cabs At Austin Straubel

City Told Some Violate Ordinance

Austin Straubel field at Green Bay is out of bounds to Appleton taxicabs.

Brown County officials notified City Clerk Elden Broehm of this in a letter Wednesday.

R. J. Smith, airport director, said cabs licensed by the City of Appleton have been transporting passengers from Austin Straubel in violation of a county ordinance.

Local cab companies, licensed by the city, include Appleton Yellow Cab, 209 N. Oneida St., and Fox Valley Cab, 128 N. Oneida St.

Firms Notified

Both firms were notified of the complaint by Brown County authorities and received a copy of the ordinance by certified mail from Broehm today.

The Brown County ordinance covers transportation by taxicabs and limousines from Austin Straubel, unless licensed by the county to do so.

Fee for a permit is $250 a month, or 15 per cent of the gross revenue. Ordinance violators are subject to a $25 fine, a jail term not exceeding 15 days, or both.

Promise to Obey

Representatives of the two local cab companies said they would abide by the ordinance. They admitted transporting Lawrence University students and other fares to the Brown County airport periodically.

A spokesman for Fox Valley Cab said some university students recently ordered a cab to go to the Green Bay airport and were told they were not permitted to do so.

"I guess someone from a Green Bay cab company made a complaint and threatened to get the sheriff after us if we Turn to Page 4, Col. 6

Advent Series Starts At Our Savior Church

Our Saviour Lutheran Church will have a series of Advent services beginning today at 7:30 p.m. The series theme is "Songs of Waiting."

The Rev. Ralph Sandgren, pastor, will preach on the following help for going on to college. Individual themes, "O Come, Emmanuel," "Hark! The Glad Sound" and "How Shall I Receive Thee?"

Services will be in the church, 1506 N. Meade St., and are open to the public. All of the services will be on Thursday evenings.

Persons Interested in AVS Credit Plan Have Age Span of 58-Years

Prospective Students Also Vary Widely in Diploma Credit Needs

Persons interested in the new adult high school credit program at the Appleton Vocational and Adult School cover a 58-year age span and range from those needing only one-half credit for a diploma to those needing the full 16 credits.

Ness said school officials are trying to develop two courses to start the week of Jan. 11. The subjects have not been decided yet, but possibly they will be in English and history. He said a maximum of two credits could be earned by June.

Persons enrolling in the program must be accepted by the AVS director and their high school principal, have their record and needed credits evaluated at the high school and be interviewed by the AVS student services coordinator to have a general program and immediate classwork outlined.

Hardean I. Peterson, director of teacher certification of the state department of public instruction, said of the program in a letter to Appleton Supl. of Schools William Spears, "This seems to be a much more logical approach and more worthwhile than to recommend that the young adults involved obtain the equivalent high school diploma which may be issued by the state superintendent."

First Such Program

The program is the first adult high school credit program in the Fox Cities. It is limited to persons 20 years of age and over.

The youngest person attending the informational meeting was 20, and the oldest was 78.

The average age was 26 for women and 28 for men. The group included 24 men and 18 women who had attended Appleton public schools, seven men and five women who now live in Appleton but attended schools elsewhere, and 12 persons from other Fox Cities communities.

Four persons are high school graduates but want to take fourth year English, history, mathematics and science as a help for going on to college.

Grade Average

The majority of the women have completed 11th grade, and the majority of the men have completed 10th grade. Ness said, about 9 a.m. today after a two-car accident at Tall and Jackson streets. He complained of services will be on Thursday hall credit for two persons to back pains. The driver of the full 16 credits for five per-

Grand Chute Gets Grant for Sewers

$64,350 Federal Funds to Help With $229,500 System

Town of Grand Chute today was awarded a $64,350 federal grant for construction of a $229,500 sewerage treatment plant and main interceptor sewer system.

The plant and interceptor are part of an overall sewerage program for the Butte des Morts Utility District which is expected to cost about $540,000.

Announcement of Health, Education and Welfare Department grant came today from Eighth District Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay.

Construction presently is underway on a $232,000 sewerage collector system. Additional funds will be spent in the future on other sewer connections with the plant.

State Order

Well contamination by septic tanks caused the state board of health to order the town to form a sanitary district three years ago. The district was formed, but was changed to a utility district one year ago to make financing easier.

The Butte des Morts Utility district roughly includes the territory from Appleton's city limits to U.S. 41, and from Wisconsin Avenue to the southern edge of Town of Grand Chute.

The treatment plant will be constructed on a 10-acre site in Town of Menasha, roughly at the point where Mud Creek empties into Little Lake Butte des Morts.

To Let Bids

Grand Chute Town Chairman Art Lecker said bids will be let in the near future for construction of the plant and the interceptor system.

Lecker said the town is anxious to have work started as soon as possible on the interceptor sewers, because the interceptor must cross Butte des Morts Golf Club land. If the work lasts beyond April 1, Lecker said, the district will have to pay a penalty to the golf club. The collector sewer system work is being done by the De Vleeshower Construction Co., De Pere. "The collector system work is coming along nicely," Lecker said.

Herrling, who is attorney for the utility district as well as the town, said, "We're very pleased to receive the grant because now we can let bids on the plant and interceptor system as soon as possible."

Engineer for sewerage plant and sewer project is Donohue and Associates, Sheboygan.

Prange's to Buy Whole Block In Wausau for Another Store

Construction Expected to Start In 1967, Completion Year Later

The H. C. Prange Co. will expand its chain of retail department stores into Wausau, J. W. Glaeser, executive vice president and general manager of the Appleton store, said today.

Glaeser said the company has completed negotiations for the purchase of a full city block in downtown Wausau.

Current plans call for the start of construction on an ultimate four-story building July 1, 1967. Completion is expected a year later.

First Phase

The first phase will be a basement and two floors having 111,000 square feet of floor space. The second phase will be the third and fourth floors.

When construction is completed the building will have 164,000 square feet and will include comparable departments to other Prange stores. Future plans also call for construction of a car ramp with

Menasha Utility Bid Totals $5.4 Million

Proposal by Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. Studied by Board

MENASHA—An offer of $5.4 million has been submitted by Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. for purchase of the municipally owned Menasha Electric Utility.

The bid proposal is in the form of a letter to Mayor John Klein from Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. President Alfred Gruhl, Milwaukee. The letter was dated Nov. 19 but was not made public until now pending an opinion on the legal ability of the city to sell the utility.

The opinion, being obtained from the bonding consulting firm of Chapman and Cutler of Chicago, has not yet been received. Mayor Klein said in light of recent common council discussions, the proposal should be made public.

The request for the proposal was made in a letter to Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. on Aug. 20. A request was made at the same time for an alternate proposal for Wisconsin Michigan to furnish electric power to the city at a wholesale rate.

In part the Wisconsin Michigan proposal reads: "... is prepared to submit an offer to the City of Menasha to purchase all of the physical properties, including both the electric generating plant and the distribution system, free and clear of all liens and encumbrances, for a total consideration of $5,400,000. It has been reported total present worth of the utility is $4,900,000. Initial investment in the utility, it has been reported, was $7,500,000 but it has depreciated to the present figure.

Exclusive Franchise
"This offer is conditioned upon the City of Menasha granting to this company an appropriate exclusive franchise to operate an electric utility in the city and also upon the understanding that all records relating to present customers of the municipal utility would be made available to this company."

Gruhl said that if Menasha was interested in this offer, Wisconsin Michigan officials would be willing to confer with city representatives and supply further pertinent information, "such as the steps needed to insure greater reliability, the effect of improved use of generating facilities, and the probable extent of shared taxes which would be received by the City of Menasha if its utility were operated by this company."

Gruhl said a proposal for furnishing power to the city was not submitted because it "appears that Menasha now has substantial generating capacity and therefore is presently not in need of additional power."

Ordinance for 'Air Rights' Has Council's Favor

For H. C. Prange Catwalk Extending Over Midway Street

An ordinance which would grant the H. C. Prange Co. air rights over Midway Street between its store and parking ramp received favorable treatment from the city council Wednesday night.

It will meet its final hurdle on Dec. 16 when coming before the council for adoption.

The ordinance would give Prange a 99-year lease for $1 on a 10-foot strip over Midway where a catwalk is located.

Ald. R. P. Groh (8th), chairman of the welfare - ordinance committee which recommended initial approval of the ordinance, said he did not think it was practical.

Store Should be Included
Groh said the Prange store building itself was constructed on a portion of city-owned street, and should have been included in the lease.

"I think it's ridiculous to just include the catwalk that connects the building to the parking structure."

"If we are going to have a lease drawn up, then it should be done right to protect both the city and the company," Groh said.

Groh said he had no objection to granting the rights to the Prange Co., but emphasized he was opposed to the way the ordinance was worded because it did not include the store.

Aids Clifford Radder (16th) and Fred Ziemann (16th) voted with Groh against first reading of the ordinance.

Entering Into Lease
It has the city entering into a lease with the Prange Co. and the Security First National Bank of Sheboygan.

The ordinance requires the company to keep in force $250,000 for multiple claims arising out of an accident involving the overhead structure.

The council also: —Accepted the annexation petition of Perfect Patterns, Inc. to have a parcel of property in Grand Chute brought into the city.

—Sold a triangle of city-owned land on E. Wisconsin Avenue near the viaduct to Appleton Pattern Works Co. for $11,000.

—Sold property not needed for the Washington-Franklin Street extension to Zwicker Knitting Mills for $33,650.

Building Inspection
—Authorized the board of public works and interested aldermen to tour the state and inspect various types of construction of municipal garage buildings.

—Approved a reorganization of the administrative section of the fire department, listing a chief, deputy chief, second assistant chief and three captains.

—Agreed to schedule a meeting of 10th Ward residents with city and state highway department officials to discuss a proposed Seymour St. improvement project.

Traffic Charge Against Appleton Alderman Dismissed by Court

Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr today dismissed a traffic violation against Appleton Ald and Outagamie County Board member Al C. Fischer (15th). Judge Dohr approved a motion by Asst. City Atty. Dennis Herring to dismiss the count.

Fischer was charged with failure to yield to another car after a property damage accident May 15 in the 500 block of E. Wisconsin Avenue. Fischer pleaded innocent and posted bond of $40.

Herring said he doubted if the city could prove its case against Fischer and asked the case be dropped.

Board Fails Comment On Utility Sale Bid

MENASHA — The Electric, Gas and Water Utilities Commissioning, and office employees said was meeting this morning, apparently to discuss the bid proposal from Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. but it was not said this morning on the $5.4 million bid of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. all said they had not had enough time to study the Commission and the commission's attorney, Melvin Crowley, time.

Attempts were made to contact members of the Utilities Commission and the commission's attorney, Melvin Crowley, time. Reports indicate the city has with the same answer, "they a total investment in the utility are at a meeting," with the of $7.5 million with the present meeting location remaining a mystery.

The utilities commission reportedly holds its meetings in the city could legally sell the commission's main office, 180 utility even if the council de- Main St. However, this morning ended to do so.

Shed Lost in Fire at New Plant Site

OSHKOSH — A leaking oil burner was blamed for a fire at the site of the new Menasha Corp. plant on U.S. 41 in the Town of Neenah at 4:58 p.m. Wednesday.

The oil burner in a shed housing a well drilling machine, started a trash fire which destroyed all the tools in the shed and ignited an acetylene tank, which exploded, demolishing the shed and causing some damage to the machine.

Neenah and Menasha rural fire departments answered the call.

Aldermen Clash on Proposed Report

Loos Calls Fischer's Request for Public Works Study Unreasonable

Appleton's garbage and trash collection program got mixed in on a long list of items, including with the new Outagamie County Airport during a brief exchange between two aldermen Wednesday night.

It started near the end of the council meeting when Ald. Al C. Fischer (15th) introduced a resolution in which he demanded an extensive report within 30 days on public works department operations with emphasis on the collection program.

Fischer, who is also a member of the county board and serves on its airport committee, has been a leading proponent to have the city's sanitation division eliminated and let a private firm handle garbage and trash collections on a contract basis.

Ald. Kenneth Loos (3rd), council president and chairman of the street-sanitation committee, deemed Fischer's request unreasonable.

Fischer wanted the finance director to obtain facts and figures on a complete cost accounting, property and inventory of all equipment and when and how much it is used.

"I think the time limit set and amount of information requested is unreasonable," Loos declared.

"What a joke!" Loos told Fischer. "What you want is like me asking you to give us a report within 30 days on what has been going on at that new county airport there."

Loos said the resolution should be referred to others than the finance director's office. Mayor Clarence Mitchell then referred it to the public works director and the street-sanitation committee.

Fischer said it was agreeable to him as long as he got the information.

Council Must Decide
The council now will have to make a determination as to whether it wants to require the public works director to compile such a report.

In other action, the council: —Granted amusement and dance licenses to Jerry Kowal and Mike Behrandt, who intend to open "The Knight," a teenage nightclub at 1216 E. Wisconsin Ave. Lack of licenses has held up the opening.

Seeks Highway Work
—Authorized making contact with the state highway commission to see if W. College Avenue from Badger Avenue to the west city limits can be included on the 1965 highway construction program.

—Ordered the Oscar J. Boldt Co. to install a temporary side-devices such as a spanner, walk on the north side of Lawrence Street from Morrison to a space hammer, a plench a Durkee streets during construction of the new YMCA building.

—Officially received a Wisconsin tool without these special tools, an E m p l o y m e n t Relations Board factfinder's report relating to a city-union contract dispute, and referred it to the personnel committee.

Lawrence Says
More at Stake Than Money in U.N. Dues Talks

Basic Issue Is Soviet Hostility To World Peace

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — The world isn't getting the truth about the real reason why Russia is refusing to pay assessments in the United Nations. Neither the United States nor any other western government has ventured to define the basic issue. There is, in fact, an ironic consistency in the Soviet's refusal to make payments on its debt of several million dollars to the United Nations. For the amounts owed by Russia were spent by the U. S. in an attempt to defeat the objectives of Moscow's expenditures of probably a billion dollars a year in carrying on revolutionary movements on nearly every continent.

The dispute over the payment of U. N. "dues" is a technical one. The Soviet Union has been keeping up with its regular dues but refuses to pay certain special "assessments" which have been levied in connection with the expenses incurred by the United Nations in trying to maintain peace in the Congo, the Middle East and other areas.

The Soviet Union contends that it did not vote for such projects and is not obligated under the charter of the U. S. to pay for them. An "advisory" opinion obtained from the International Court of Justice declared that "assessments" for U. N. forces should be considered as obligatory dues. While this tends to uphold the concept that all assessments must be paid if a member is to be permitted to continue to vote in the General Assembly, the fact remains that there is no specific obligation on this point set forth in the charter of the organization itself.

U. N. Assessments
Not only is the Moscow government involved, but the other communist-block countries have been coerced by the Soviet regime into a refusal also to pay any "assessments" levied by the U. N. in connection with its peace-keeping operations.

Proposals have been advanced recently that the security council of the U. N. should have a voice in approving or disapproving the special assessments, but even in 1950, when this same council called upon the various member nations to send troops into Korea to repel an invasion, the Soviet Union took it upon itself to furnish arms and ammunition to the Red Chinese to carry on their invasion of Korea. No action was ever taken by the United Nations to expel the Soviet Union from the Security Council because of this act of treason to the organization.

The situation remains unchanged today. The Soviets still are engaged in a world-wide revolutionary movement which constitutes treason against the United Nations itself. The Communists are furnishing arms and supplies and stationing their agents in various countries in Latin America and Asia, as well as in Africa, all with the avowed purpose of stirring up trouble and overthrowing constituted governments. The United Nations for several years now has remained silent on this violation of its charter. Even the United States has not denounced such activity in explicit terms. Nor has it called upon the United Nations to obtain respect by the Soviet Union for the principles of the U. N. charter, which abounds in phrases about maintaining peace and respecting the sovereignty of member nations.

The Soviet Union owes the U. N. approximately $52.6 million, which is mostly in "assessments" for its share of the peace-keeping expenses in the mid-east and Africa. But this is a relatively small sum compared to the heavy expenditures by the Communists in their revolutionary activities.

It is the irresoluteness of the western nations and the failure to face up to the facts which are making a sham of the current debate over U. N. "assessments." For the real problem is not related to the mere payment of money. It is the attitude of the Soviet and Red China governments toward the peace of the world which is the real cause for concern.

There's a long battle ahead, and it will not be won until the Washington government takes off the gloves and gets into the debate with far more hard-hitting tactics than have been used before. What is really needed is an exposure of the facts concerning Soviet and Red Chinese infiltration and subversion, including financial support for student groups and other revolutionary bodies in many countries in the world where disorders have been going on for several years now.

The United Nations is hesitant to interfere in the internal affairs of any country, but when there is a threat to the peace of the world, it has felt that it has a right to interpose and to mobilize the forces of member nations in order to keep the peace. The principle has a far-reaching significance and could someday be brought to bear in all parts of the world.

So there's more at stake now in the question of payment of special assessments than merely support for the United Nations' treasury. The real issue is whether the free nations of the world are going to continue to pussyfoot and flounder in their relations with the Soviet Union instead of coming out in the open and setting forth the true facts about Soviet hostility to freedom and peace in the world.

NFO Members Testify in Hearing of Cecil Trucker

Retell Events Leading to Deaths Of Two Fellow Demonstrators

Post-Crescent News Service

SHAWANO — Four members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO), testifying in the preliminary hearing of Cecil truck driver Ivan Mueller, who is charged with homicide by reckless conduct, told Wednesday afternoon how two of their fellow NFO pickets died under the wheels of Mueller's truck at the gates of the Equity Livestock Co-op at Bonduel Sept. 9.

The preliminary hearing before Outagamie County Judge Raymond Dohr was adjourned at the close of Wednesday's testimony until 9 a.m. Monday to allow Judge Dohr to keep up with his own calendar commitments.

Mueller is charged with reckless conduct in the deaths of Howard Falk, 64, of rural Bonduel and Melvin Cummings, 44, of rural Antigo. The men were part of a group of more than 400 NFO pickets gathered at the Equity yards as part of the organization's national livestock holding action.

A rural Greenleaf farmer, Leslie H. Burt, was the first witness called by Dist. Atty. Michael Eberlein Wednesday afternoon.

Burt told the court he was standing on the north side of the driveway off State 117 when Mueller's truck approached from the north. He said the truck stopped, several of the demonstrators shouted at the driver, and then the truck was rocked "a little bit."

Burt then said the vehicle lurched forward, stopped, reversed for about eight feet, and then came forward again into the crowd.

Somebody shouted to look out, the truck was coming," Burt said. "I had to put my hands up along the side of the cab and rack to keep out of the way of the truck. He came in just like he was going into a snowbank."

Knocked Down

After he got out of the way of the truck, Burt said, he saw two men, who he later learned were Falk and Cummings, knocked down by the front of the cattle truck and run over by both the front and rear wheels on the right side.

The farmer said he was standing less than an arm's length away from Falk who was at his ety right. He said he was sure both hiker were struck by the front of own vehicle, but he could not pinpoint the portion of the truck urged, which made contact with the bodies.

He also said he was sure the front and the rear wheels passed over both bodies, and said "the movement of the front end was very noticeable as the wheel passed over the bodies."

Under cross-examination by defense Attorney Bernard Berk, Green Bay, Burt said he was a member of the Brown County chapter of the NFO.

NFO Not on Trial

Berk asked the witness if the purpose of the demonstration was to keep cattle out of the Equity yards, but Eberlein objected, noting, "the NFO is not on trial here." Judge Dohr sustained the objections.

Berk then asked Burt to examine a group of 24 photos of the scene which had been submitted earlier in evidence to see if the farmer could identify himself in any of the shots.

Burt looked through the photos until he came to several shots showing the bodies of Falk and Cummings on the driveway after the truck passed over them.

pulse buying. Another 25 percent have a partially prepared list and the remaining quarter follow a list.

"Men are the darndest impulse shoppers in America," said McDowell. He said the impulse field was one of the best markets in which the fruit industry could expand.

Since 1927 items on the grocer's shelves have grown from 867 to 8,000 battling for the current shopper's attention. Many other industries such as dairy, beer, tea and coffee were listed as spending millions of dollars in advertising, another important aspect of the new program. The fruit industry was absent from the list, he said.

McDowell praised the Appleton Chamber of Commerce in its promotions, marketing and advertising for the convention. He shot by Green Bay Press-Gazette photographer Ken Behrend, taken from the south side of the driveway, on the opposite side of the truck from where the two victims died.

Visibly shaken, Burt asked to be excused from the stand, and was unable to continue testifying for the rest of the afternoon.

The second NFO member called was Roy H. Schmidt, Birnamwood, in Shawano County.

Schmidt told the court he was standing in the driveway talking to Cummings when Mueller's truck pulled up. He confirmed the stopping and backing sequence related by previous witnesses, and said when the truck came forward the second time, he had to "stiff arm" himself away from the front of the vehicle and spin aside to keep from being knocked down.

"I saw Melvin Cummings turn, trying to get away, when the front end of the truck hit him," Schmidt said. "His left leg was extended out and his right leg bent underneath. The right front wheel came over his knee. Then I looked at the rear wheels and saw them passing over Falk."

Both Burt and Schmidt said none of the county officers at the scene ordered them to clear the driveway, and Mueller did not sound his horn before moving forward into the of demonstrators.

Hit by Truck

Under cross examination, Schmidt said at one point Cummings was brushed by the front corner of the truck, but then amended his statement saying he was definitely "hit" by the truck.

He did say, however, that he couldn't remember any noticeable up and down movement of the truck when it passed over Cummings.

Milton Bohm, route 1, Bonduel, said the first thing he recalled was the noise of the truck motor.

Grazed Hand

Bohm said the truck was upon him all of a sudden, and the wheel grazed his left hand as it passed. He said he saw Cummings go down in front of the truck and then he saw Falk laying on the ground. He said he didn't see the front wheel pass over Cumming's body.

William Balis, who had traveled from Deer Brook in Langlade County to take part in the demonstration, said he was standing next to Falk when the truck came forward. He said he saw Falk go down first and then Cummings, both men being struck by the front of the truck.

Balis also said he heard a deputy sheriff tell Mueller to get his truck up after it moved into the crowd the first time.

Both the films and the photos, shot by Green Bay Press-Gazette photographer Ken Behrend, taken from the south side of the driveway, on the opposite side of the truck from where the two victims died.

she always sprinkles the bottom crusts of her pies lightly with granulated sugar before adding the filling.

Another important step is that she carefully layers the apple slices with the dry filling mix until the pie is rounded a little in the center—never too high.

The champion pie maker also believes firmly in the "ad lib" or creative process. In this particular winning recipe she added a dash of powdered orange breakfast drink (the vitamin C fortified kind) to give the apples an added fruity tartness.

The top crust of her pie also proved her ability to score high in originality. Instead of using a conventional top crust, she cut out semi-circles of pastry in the top crust to resemble apples. Under these slits she inserted thin apple wedges with their rosy skins left intact to lend color to the pie. Then she set real apple stems at perky angles at the top of each of the "apples" to give a patterned look to the apple dessert.

Mrs. Mott chose McIntosh apples for the prizewinning pie, but says she has had equal success with Early Duchess and Greening varieties.

Here is the particular recipe which brought the state championship to Mrs. Mott. She calls it Eve's Apple Pie, using an apt change of her own first name, Eva.

EVE'S APPLE PIE

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
¾ cup lard
4 to 5 tablespoons cold milk
Sugar for sprinkling

¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Dash powdered orange breakfast drink
4 cups peeled apple slices
Butter

Thin apple wedges, unpeeled
Sugar for sprinkling
Stems for decoration

To make the crust: Mix dry ingredients thoroughly. Cut in half the shortening and blend until mixture is fine. Cut in remaining shortening; blend well. Add enough milk to make pastry right for rolling. Divide pastry dough into two portions.

Roll out bottom crust; fit into nine-inch pie plate. Sprinkle lightly with sugar. Set top crust pieces in shape. Place crust over wedges under each cut-out. Dot generously with butter. Roll out top crust. Cut out semi-circles (not complete circles) in pastry to resemble apples in shape. Place crust over wedges under each cut-out. Sprinkle top of pie with granulated sugar.

Bake the pie in a preheated oven at 400 degrees for 30 minutes, then lower temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking for 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until pie is done.

Controlled Fusion Ultimate Goal of Nuclear Scientists

An Estimated 10 to 20 Years
Needed for Project Research

BY WILLIAM C. HARRISON
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — power is achieved," Dr. Shoupp said, "but it's there."

The nuclear physicists, each with more than 20 years in the field, were pleased with U.S. progress in developing the new power source for generating electricity. They predicted even more rapid future progress with private enterprise taking a growing role.

The United States leads the world in nuclear technology, they said. "But don't forget that the British have generated about five times as many nuclear kilowatt hours as this nation," Roddis warned.

"The Russians have no really significant position in atomic power," he said, "but on technology their position is similar to ours."

New Idea

They said in an interview they believed a new idea will be required for large-scale desalting of sea and brackish water.

"I doubt that brute force distillation will be the answer," Roddis said. Other speakers at concurrent meetings of the society and forum have advocated dual purpose nuclear plants to desalt water and supply electrical power. These include Dr. Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Discounting the feasibility of nuclear-powered planes, Roddis said, "I can see no purpose even in supersonic passenger planes." He suggested instead that rapid-transit services to airports be established.

Nuclear Power

The men pointed out that nuclear power is conventional now for new U.S. submarines. But they suggested that both naval and commercial ship builders are lagging in the exploitation of atomic energy.

"Other maritime nations of the world are struggling hard to get into the nuclear-powered ship business," Roddis said, listing the Soviet Union, Germany, Italy and Japan.

For long space missions, nuclear fission systems will combine the required low weight with high energy per pound, Dr. Shoupp said. He added that the energy source provides "the only way of accomplishing long manned missions — Mars and beyond."

Controlled fusion, elusive goal of massive research, is still at the "dream stage," the two agreed.

"It may be between 10 and 20 years before controlled fusion

Last Church Moving From NASA Rocket Test Base Grounds

BY DAVID H. ZINMA
FLAT TOP, Miss (AP) — The last sermon has been preached and the final hymn has been sung in the tiny, tin-roofed Harmony Baptist Church.

The half-century-old white frame building is the last of some 20 rural churches to close on the 141,000 acres now owned by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's new Mississippi Test Operation.

When it is completed, the $500-million base will test fire the giant rockets that one day will launch astronauts on a 2½-day 238,000-mile ride to the moon.

"The Mississippi test facility is now void of inhabitants," the Rev. Dennis Hale, 27, said in his Sunday sermon. "Our nation's desire to conquer outer space is forcing us to move to other space."

The Rev. Mr. Hale took his text from the Biblical passage in which Moses challenged the Israelites to move from the wilderness to the Promised Land.

"God has marching orders for us," the preacher said.

He urged his 100 churchgoers, some of whom had lived all their lives in the Flat Top community, named after an old lemming school — to meet and conquer the challenge.

The hamlets — Gainesville, Logtown, Bayou la Croix, Napoleon, Santa Rosa, and Flat Top — have become ghost towns.

Even their cemeteries, some of which existed before Mississippi became a state in 1817, have been uprooted.

The government paid families what it called "fair market value" for their homes and land.

"We don't have any hard feelings," the Rev. Mr. Hale said. "The whole thing has served to draw the congregation closer together."

Harmony Church, which began in 1894 as a log house, will be torn down. The congregation will move about six miles north to a new and larger masonry church. The parsonage was torn from its foundations and moved.

The government paid $47,000 for the old church and its 3½ acres, about what it cost for the new church and its plot.

GOP Governors Gather for Look at Party of the Future

BY JACK BELL
DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters stood on the sidelines today as Republican governors gathered here for a searching look at the future of their badly divided party.

About the only representative of the Goldwater conservative viewpoint scheduled to be on hand in this extraordinary session of state GOP executives is Gov. Tim M. Babcock of Montana. A supporter of Goldwater before the San Francisco convention, Babcock won re-election after moving away from the GOP presidential nominee during the campaign.

Three Rockefeller Progressives, including three Rockefeller, were converging on Denver for a session that might produce some challenging statements but that seemed unlikely to provide the impetus to unseat GOP National Chairman Dean Burch.

Solidly supported by Goldwater, Burch will risk his $30,000 a-year job on a confidence vote in a national committee session Jan. 22-23 in Chicago. Gov. Paul Fanning of Arizona, elected to the Senate to fill the seat that Goldwater will vacate in the new Congress, sent word that he could not be on hand for the meeting here.

Gov. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, a before-San Francisco supporter of Goldwater, also couldn't attend. He was sending John Tyler, Oklahoma state chairman, and Bud Wilkinson, defeated GOP candidate for the Senate, to represent him.

F. Clifton White, regarded as one of the "real pros" of the Goldwater campaign, canceled hotel reservations, indicating he would not be on hand to defend Goldwater's interests. But the Rockefellers, who opposed the Arizona senator's nomination, were expected to arrive in force. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who did not campaign for the GOP presidential nominee, was bringing in a plane load of Goldwater critics.

AMA Refuses to Compromise in Medicare Battle

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Most of the doctors have returned home after a critical political meeting that has set up their continuing and likely expensive battle against Medicare.

The American Medical Association closed its winter meeting Wednesday with a flurry of political actions that:

—Named James Ziegler Appel, 57, a Lancaster, Pa., physician and veteran of AMA affairs as president-elect, to take office in June.

—Shunted aside all suggestions that they might find compromise approaches to federal medical care for the aged, in effect killing four resolutions which sought to do so.

—Pledged to fight the Medicare issue, despite signs that the Johnson administration will press for early consideration in a Congress likely more friendly to the issue than ever before.

The AMA's House of Delegates, the legislative body, strongly endorsed a speech by AMA President Donovan Ward, that pledged the resources of the AMA against Medicare and vowed no compromise.

8 Countries Represented by Swiss in Cuba

All Have Broken Relations With Regime of Castro

BY GEOFFREY ATKINS
BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The poor state of Fidel Castro's relations with a number of nations is causing headaches in an unexpected quarter — the Swiss diplomatic service.

Neutral Switzerland now represents the interests in Cuba of eight countries that have broken relations with the Castro regime. The United States was the first, in 1961. Argentina, Guatemala, Honduras, Chile, Brazil, Ecuador and Venezuela followed.

In 1960, Switzerland had an ambassador and a first secretary as its entire diplomatic staff in Havana. Now there are 13 diplomats and a team of clerks, typists and office workers.

Most Work By far the most work in Havana is done on behalf of the United States, which had large interests in Cuba before Castro took over.

"We have issued over 2,000 Swiss protection passports to American citizens still in Cuba," a senior Swiss official said. "But there are still a number who have not registered with our embassy in Havana."

The Cuban government recognizes the Swiss protection passport although it does not give the holder the rights of a normal passport.

An American law decrees that U.S. visas and passports must be signed by an official of an American consulate or embassy. As none of these are now in Cuba, any American whose passport has expired has to go through a complicated procedure to go to the United States.

Swiss Protection With his Swiss protection passport, he goes to the Mexican Embassy. There he applies for a Mexican transit visa. With it he can fly to Mexico City where the American Embassy gives him an American visa.

The procedure is also difficult for Americans wishing to get information on friends or relatives in Cuba.

They must write to the State Department which forwards the Protest Administration Charge

University Students Arrested En Masse After Demonstration

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — More than 800 University of California students staged an all-night sit-in inside the school's administration building until they were arrested en masse today by highway patrol officers, police from nearby cities and sheriff's deputies.

Police cordoned off the building — Sproul Hall — to sympathizers and onlookers massed during the early morning hours — some lumpy — to buses waiting to carry the rebels to the county prison farm. More than 100 police officers were involved.

Refuse Plea The students refused Chancellor Edward Strong's plea that they disperse peacefully. The young men and women had gathered in Sproul Hall to protest the administration's refusal to sleep, cuddled together for warmth under blankets and makeshift covers, on the third and second floors of the large building.

At a second-floor window members of the student body climbed ropes into the hall to join in the protest. Two policemen finally stopped this, but before it was discovered, the influx was greater than the evacuation.

The arrests were ordered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown shortly after midnight. First person arrested today was Robert Treuhait, husband of Jessica Milford who gained recognition as author of the bestselling "The American Way of Death." Treuhait, a nonstudent, walked into the building's press room and was asked to leave by a policeman.

Arrested Promptly He refused, saying he had business there, and was promptly arrested and taken to the basement to be photographed and fingerprinted. The exact charge against him was not known.

The university had charged Savio and three others, Art Goldberg, his sister Jackie, and Brian Turner with violating university rules forbidding on-campus membership and fund solicitation for off-campus organizations.

The arresting process was agonizingly slow. Police moved in teams to drag limp bodies from the building's fourth floor. The teams slapped number cards on the youths, photographed them and whisked them away to the buses. Hundreds of others were

Controversy Climaxes As Professor at Yale Meets Russian Editor

Undercurrent Tense at University's Reception

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — "The undercurrent was a bit tense," an assistant professor at Yale said today after a face to face meeting with a Soviet editor he had accused of being an "ideological watchdog."

The meeting at a Yale reception climaxed an academic controversy that began earlier this week when the faculty member, Charles A. Moser, criticized the makeup of a Soviet literary delegation.

The delegation included Alexander Chakovsky, editor of the Moscow Literary Gazette.

"I just wanted to present myself so it wouldn't be said I was content to work at a distance," explained Moser, who had urged the Yale community to give the Soviet delegation "a minimal amount of hospitality."

Moser, 30, a specialist in Slavic languages, had singled out Chakovsky, the delegation's senior member, and a poet, Robert Rozhdestvensky.

The poet, Moser said, was violently anti-American and "ideological watchdog" and a "literary bureaucrat and hatchetman."

"I can't say articles like that can lift our mood and make our journey very pleasant," Chakovsky told newsmen upon his arrival.

"I should like to say that all of us are ready to face Professor Moser and to say to him what we think of him."

Chakovsky got his chance when Moser approached him as he stood midway between two punch bowls in Yale's Woolsey Hall.

"The whole exchange involved a good deal of emotional reserve on both sides," said Moser.

What was said was said in Russian. Both Chakovsky and Moser gave separate versions of the 3-minute encounter. It ended with the pipe-smoking editor saying "okay" and turning his back to talk to someone else.

New Twist Added To Horse Thievery

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — There's a new twist to horse thievery in this one-time frontier capital.

Jean McHarg reported thieves died Wednesday in Harper House, stole a one-ton pickup truck and a four-horse trailer from in front of her home Wednesday.

They then drove to her suburban ranch and stole four prize horses.

Miss McHarg told police the horses were worth $25,000 and the trailer rig and truck about $8,000.

N. Y. Republicans Against Goldwater

Favor Moderates

BY CHARLES DUMAS
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and other top New York Republicans will throw their weight into any effort to break the Goldwater faction's grip on the national GOP and steer the party toward a more moderate course, persons close to the governor say.

But they also say Rockefeller will not try to take the lead himself for fear that conservative elements will accuse him of serving personal ambition.

Rockefeller Conduct This they say, will guide Rockefeller's conduct at the conference of Republican governors opening Friday in Denver, where the primary topic will be the future of the ailing GOP.

Rockefeller goes to the meeting with his state organization firmly behind him in opposition to continued leadership of the national GOP by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the party's defeated presidential candidate.

Little Support Goldwater had little support among Republican professionals in this state before the Nov. 3 election and as a result of his loss appears to have even less. Most blame him for the serious reverses suffered here, including ing loss of the Legislature for the first time in three decades. The chief reason for Rockefeller's hesitance to lead an anti-Goldwater drive, according to political associates, is the desire to avoid any impression that he already is gunning for the next GOP presidential nomination. Close associates will not say, however, that he has lost interest in seeking the presidency again.

Ringo Starr

Misread Item About Beatle Causes Shock

LONDON (AP) — Beatle drummer Ringo Starr rested comfortably without his tonsils today while his British fans recovered from a severe case of post-operative shock.

"Ringo Starr's tonsils were successfully removed this morning," the British Broadcasting Corporation announced in its first newscast after the operation Wednesday.

Alarmed that the surgeons had knifed the wrong end of their idol, thousands of fans jammed the BBC switchboard. Hasty apologies were made in later newscasts.

Misread Item "I misread the item," said announcer Roy Williams, "it happens to all of us and I bet Ringo is glad I'm not his surgeon."

The postoffice, which operates Britain's telephone system, put on relays of five girls to switch callers inquiring for Ringo's state of health to a recorded bulletin.

When calls from British fans declined toward late evening, transatlantic calls started coming in.

"We've had tons of Americans on the line — calls by the hundred," the postoffice said. Ringo, 24, lay in red pajamas in a fifth floor room of London's University College Hospital.

One Briton who had no sympathy for him was Joyce Cullen, 36, across town in West Harrow. Her phone number is Byron 2332, just a slip of the dial from the Ringo bulletin service on Covent Garden 2332. Her phone rang continuously: "Ringo's tonsils," she said. "They've made my life hell."

Congo's First College Grad Serves Rebels

Is Opposed to West Influence
For Homeland

BY ANDREW BOROWIEC

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — In the safety of the Kenyan capital, the Congo's first college graduate is developing a wide-spread campaign against Western influence in his turbulent homeland.

Thomas Kanza, polite, suave "foreign minister" of the rebel regime of Christophe Gbenye, appears to have won the first round of his battle.

The special commission on the Congo of the Organization of African Unity has condemned American and Belgian intervention to save white hostages in rebel areas.

It called for a summit meeting of African chiefs of state on the Congo and proposed a series of steps which ultimately would limit the power of the Leopoldville government of Premier Moise Tshombe.

Only Voice
At this stage, Kanza is the only leader of the left-leaning nationalist revolt whose voice can be heard outside the war-swept jungle of the northeast Congo.

He has utilized it fully, playing on Africa's distrust of Tshombe, frequently described here as a "lackey of imperialism" and "tool of colonialists."

Against Tshombe's theory that order in the Congo can be restored only with the help of whites, Kanza presented his own — that African nationalism with Communist backing will sooner or later triumph.

Informed sources say his arguments fell on fertile ground among restive politicians of Africa.

Decisive Victories
Failure by the West to win any decisive victories in Africa has strengthened Kanza's arguments. Africa's susceptibility for extremism, its feeling of inferiority toward the former colonizers and desire to "get even" with them have further played into Kanza's hands.

What remains to be seen is whether the meeting of Africa's leaders can launch an effective campaign against Tshombe's regime which is backed by the United States and Belgium.

Hitherto, this backing has seldom been total. The recent history of Africa has shown that half measures seldom succeeded on this continent.

"If the Belgians and Americans want to win the war in the Congo, why don't they throw thousands of troops into the battle?" asked a Kenyan official. "In the eyes of independent Africa they would be just as guilty as for launching 600 paratroopers who have not won anything."

Human Aspect
Most Africans fail to see the humanitarian aspect of the paratroop rescue operation. To them it was a case of "Western aggression" with the resulting blow to U.S. prestige.

Reports from the Congo's battle regions speak of continuing fighting between Tshombe's forces and rebel "simbas" — lions.

Any loss of ground by the central government's task force spearheaded by white mercenaries is bound to strengthen Kanza's position.

A graduate of Louvain University in Belgium in 1956, Kanza was the first Congolese to obtain a university degree. Later he studied at Bruges and Harvard universities.

From the beginning, he has been hostile to Belgian influence in the Congo. Before independence, he said: "Without Belgians there would have been roads, schools and hospitals in the Congo. No one is indispensable in this world."

An associate of the late Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's first premier, Kanza served the Cyrille Adoula regime as an ambassador to London and to the United Nations.

After a bitter quarrel with Tshombe over the use of white mercenaries and advisers, Kanza joined the Stanleyville rebels and became their spokesman abroad.

At this stage, Kanza remains the most active enemy of Western presence in the Congo and the most effective advocate of the Congolese nationalist extremist.

Canadians Determined Not To Let Country be U.S. Satellite

Still Have Close Ties With America Through Defenses

BY MAX HARRELSON

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians are determined not to let their country become a U.S. satellite — or even to have the appearance of being one.

They have demonstrated their political independence by trading with Cuba and Red China, and they are moving toward the eventual recognition of the Peking government.

But they are tied closely to the United States both through the North American defense system and through the North

Fourth of a Series

Atlantic Treaty Organization. Since last year, they have had American-owned nuclear warheads at two Canadian missile bases.

U.S. Policies

For this reason, they are extremely sensitive to U.S. foreign policy decisions.

The accounts in part for the keen interest Canadians showed in the U.S. presidential election Both Prime Minister Lester B.

Pearson and opposition leader John G. Diefenbaker quickly hailed President Johnson's victory as a guarantee of continued friendly relations between the United States and Canada.

On economic matters, Canadian nationalists find it much more difficult to assert their independence. The two countries do more business with each other than with anybody else.

About 60 per cent of all Canadian exports go to the United States, and about two-thirds of all Canadian imports are from the United States.

Common Complaints

One of the common complaints of Canadians is that Americans own so much of their country that Canada is no longer master of its own house.

"There is no country in the world," says Finance Minister Walter Gordon, "that can make any pretense of being independent if it does not control its own communications media, its own financial institutions and, in one way or another, the general nature of the decisions made by those who direct its industries."

Comedian Dave Broadfoot joked: "If President Johnson wants to do something to help celebrate the 100th anniversary of confederation he might give Canada back to the Canadians." There have been efforts by both main political parties to discourage foreign investments, but the pressure of provincial governments and of business was so great that the proposed measures were dropped.

At present, U.S. investments are increasing.

Investment Control

Nonresidents — mostly Americans — control 70 per cent of the investments in Canadian petroleum and natural gas, 59 per cent in mining and smelting and 60 per cent in manufacturing. This means that major decisions often are made by people who live outside Canada. It also means that huge sums of money flow abroad in interest and dividends.

Foreign control of Canadian economy worries Canadians and hurts their pride. They are afraid, for example, that in the event of a business slump, U.S. owners might close their Canadian subsidiaries and cause large-scale unemployment, while keeping their U.S. plants in operation. They also resent the application of U.S. laws, such as those restricting exports to Cuba and Red China, to Canadian subsidiaries.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp has said Canada is not worried that the United States will be unfriendly but that it may "neglect to take our legitimate interests into account."

Biggest Problem

The biggest problem at the moment is the question of importing auto parts from the United States and exporting as-

Salvation Army Family Takes in Four Orphans

BY LEN TALIAFERRO

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A Salvation Army family of four, living on $60 a week, has taken four orphaned children into their home.

"We want to be able to give them the love they need and want," said Capt. Bill McFarland.

"Anyone would have done the same thing. It's something you don't have to think about. You just know what to do."

McFarland and his wife took the children after they found their 71-year-old father, a retired laborer, dead on Thanksgiving Day.

Family Pastor

"They didn't know who to call, so they called me," McFarland said. "I was their pastor. And most often people turn to their pastors in a time of need. They had relatives here but they didn't know how to get in touch with them right away."

McFarland refused to name the children and would not allow them to be photographed. He would say only that the two boys were 11 and 14 years old and the girls were 15 and 16.

"We want them to understand that we took them because we love them and not for any glory," he said.

"It isn't a burden," Mrs. McFarland said. "Both girls help in the kitchen and even the youngest boy wants to help set the table."

Talked it Over

"We all sat down and had a little talk," her husband said. "I said I was head of the family and I made the decisions." Mrs. McFarland said their own children, a girl, 7, and a boy, 3, loved having the four.

Asked how she felt about suddenly doubling the size of her family, Mrs. McFarland replied, "I'm used to it. I was raised in a large family."

The McFarlands live in a three-bedroom house provided by the Salvation Army. McFarland, 30, has charge of all the army's activities here.

The McFarlands said juvenile authorities had granted them temporary custody of the children and such custody could be continued indefinitely.

McFarland said there would be no financial problems because the children would receive Social Security benefits which would care for them until they finish school.

"The only thing I'm worried about is being equipped to handle teen-agers," he said, "especially teen-aged girls and their boyfriends."

like looking for someone who doesn't read newspapers

Very hard to find. 99 million people in almost 9 out of every 10 homes read newspapers. It's the most sought after, often bought, eagerly consumed, intensely depended upon product in the world. The reason is obvious. We can't do without it. The need to know about the news and events that touch and shape our lives is deep, intense, unending. And the need to know is now. Today. So it's not very hard to figure out why more advertising dollars are spent in daily newspapers than in TV, magazines, radio, and outdoor combined.

At Berlin Wall

Bernauerstrasse in West Berlin Called Saddest of Streets

BY JOHN O. KOEHLER
BERLIN (AP) — They stare back at you with dead eyes — the bricked-up windows of the high apartment houses. Behind their wooden doors there is silence, only rats scurry over the floors where once children played.

Beneath the windows on the sidewalk are small wooden crosses. Men and women fell or jumped to their death here to escape communism.

This is Bernauerstrasse — 1.2 miles long in West Berlin. It's the saddest street in the world.

The roadway and both sidewalks of Bernauerstrasse are in West Berlin. But the buildings on the street's east side mark the border of the Communist world.

Human Rights
Nowhere else in this tortured city has communism so vividly demonstrated how it regards human rights. Bernauerstrasse is a macabre symbol of a people divided by political ideology.

"It has been suggested that we rename this street 'Die Strasse der Tränen' — The Street of Tears," said Helmut Mattis, mayor of the Borough of Wedding to which Bernauerstrasse belongs.

"But I rejected this at once. It will remain Bernauerstrasse, a name that has been entered in the annals of brutality."

Neighbors, friends and relatives were torn apart when the Reds started in August 1961 to build the Berlin wall to stop the mass escape of refugees.

The Communists began with bricking up the doorways and the ground-floor apartment windows.

Virtual Prison
It dawned on the people in the houses on Eastern side that the Communists were building a virtual prison. They began to escape.

The first fugitives knocked bricks out of the ground-floor windows. They tossed their most precious belongings into the street, then jumped or climbed to freedom.

The East German regime took so desperate that they further steps, bricking up the Bernauerstrasse, the Dividing Line between free and Communist Berlin, has been called the saddest street in the world. windows of the upper floors. Still people escaped. Men, women and children, young and old, slid down ropes and jumped into the nets of firemen. Some 200 made it safely.

Windows Sealed

Two women and a man became so desperate that they jumped when there was no life-saving net beneath them. They died on the sidewalk.

Finally all the windows were sealed off and Red guards ran barbed wire along the roofs.

Bernd Linser, 22, managed to avoid the guards and the barbed wire and perched precariously on a rooftop trying to attract West Berlin police.

West Berliners alerted the fire department. But he had also attracted the attention of his hunters, who fired submachine guns.

Bullets whined through Bernauerstrasse while firemen unfurled their net. They braced themselves and gave the signal to jump. Linser hurled himself 75 feet down and missed the net.

The Communists evacuated all the houses, moving the remaining 2,000 residents to other parts of East Berlin.

Since then hair-raising escapes through tunnels and gun battles have kept Bernauerstrasse on front pages. It has become a major tourist sight.

Fresh flowers always decorate the four wooden crosses marking the spots where refugees died. They come from Irmingard Klatt's flower shop.

"Move away?" she asks. "No, I have been here for 30 years and you can't transplant old trees."

Appleton Youth Fined For Leaving Accident

KAUKAUNA — Richard Kollath, 19, 1515 N. Division St., Appleton, pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of accident when arraigned before Oscar T. Jahns, municipal justice, Tuesday morning and was fined $35.

Kollath was arrested after an investigation by police of a Nov. 26 accident in which a car parked in a Wisconsin Avenue parking lot was damaged. Part of the taillight of the Kollath vehicle was found at the scene.

Steel Industry Output Passes Record of 1955

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most illustrious records of U.S. industry fell today as the nation's steel output in 1964 climbed past 117 million tons.

Exact production data was not available but industry statisticians said 1955's all time high of 117,036,085 tons undoubtedly would be surpassed before midnight.

School Bus and Truck Collide

None Seriously Hurt in Mishap Near New London

NEW LONDON — A school bus loaded with students and a semi-trailer truck loaded with gravel collided near here this morning, but no injuries more serious than bumps and bruises were reported.

The New London School District bus was crossing U. S. 45 on Breiten Road at about 7:25 a.m. when the collision with the truck occurred.

Chauncey Suprise, route 2, New London, driver of the bus, said he was traveling east.

Headed North
The truck, driven by Vern Bunkelman, route 2, Seymour, was going north on U. S. 45.

Neither of the drivers, or any of the students on the 48-passenger bus sought medical help, but several complained of bumps and bruises.

Another bus was sent to pick up the students and finish their trip to school.

Bake Sale Ingredients: Sugar, Spice, Concern for Retarded

BY HAZEL THIEL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — Ingredients of care, love and hope are being stirred by Calumet County women, along with sugar and spice, as they bake for what they hope will soon be a Day Care Center for the county's mentally retarded.

Interested people have realized for sometime the need for such a center, and bake sales in most of the villages and towns in the county are being sponsored this weekend by the Calumet Homemakers and their friends.

The venture was planned during the recent National Mentally Retarded Week, in co-operation with the Calumet County Mentally Retarded Association.

Homemakers were contacted "because they are mothers"

The county group also has an enviable culinary record, having authored a cook-book now in its third printing and being used throughout the country.

Because of their limited membership, other groups have joined hands in baking for the sales. Many did not wait to be asked, but voluntarily agreed to bake; others are being contacted by telephone, and in turn asked to "telawoman" about the project. The personal contact and woman's touch is expected to add success. All proceeds will remain in the county.

While there are 36 children in three schools here this year, people associated with the retarded program point out that there are about 200 children in the county who need special help. Of these 175 have been tested, according to County Superintendent of Schools, Francis J. Flanagan.

Hoped For

The association feels if it starts small, eventually it may be able to have a Day Care Center equipped with a workshop and classrooms. At present two special classes are taught at Chilton and Forest Junction, with trainable children attending two sessions at Twain School, east of Stockbridge.

Hearing of the need for such a building being dreamed of by the Retarded Association, headed by Mrs. C. C. Supita, New Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. James Toth of the Toth Nursing Home in Chilton, have offered the basement of their establishment at Leitners Service Store, starting the initial place for the center. It is, of course, subject to state approval.

The building, opened this year, has separate basement entrances, which would prevent any disturbance of patients in the main building.

The sale in Sherwood will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at Sacred Heart School, St. John and Sherwood bakery will be handled by Mrs. Irvin Kesler, route 1, Hilbert, and Mrs. John Carney, route 1, Menasha. In Darboy the sale will be conducted during the open house session of the new addition to Holy Angels School, starting at 1 p.m. Sunday. Mrs. Raymond Zuleger and Mrs. Edward Jochmann have charge.

With the sales at Sacred Heart and Holy Angels schools there will be displays of articles made by the trainable children at Twain School, under the supervision of Mrs. Rosemary

Riverview Country Club Dinner Dance Ends Social Activities for the Year

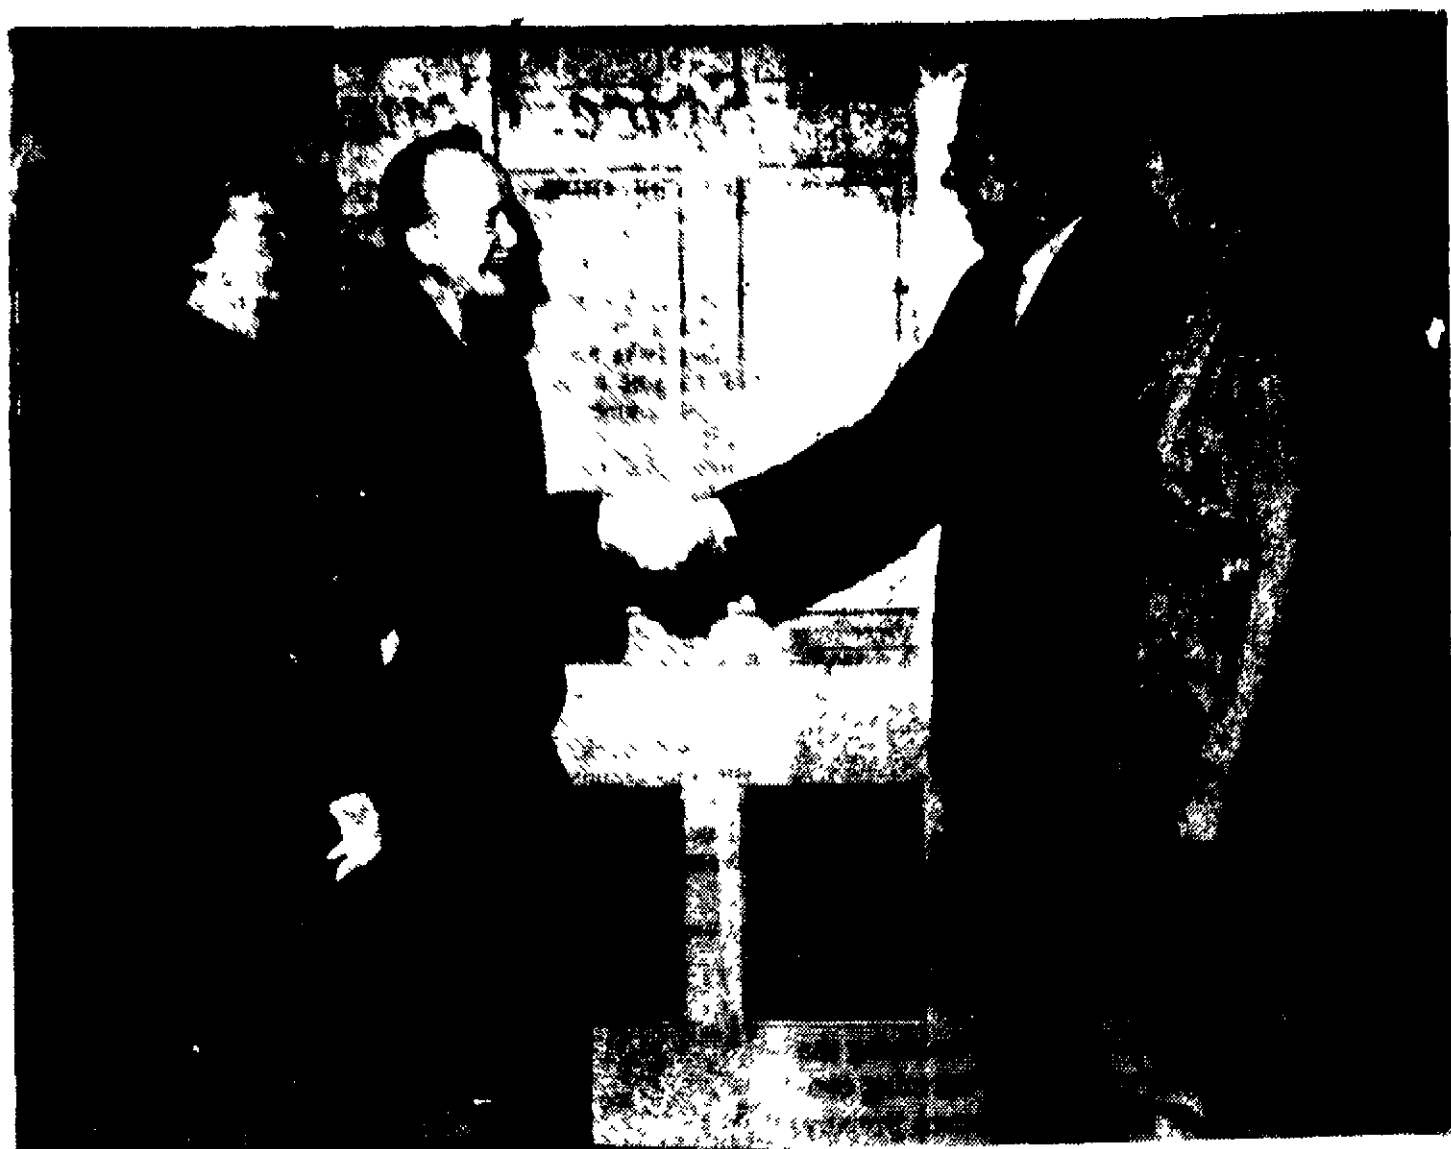

Dr. Arthur Taylor, above, shakes hands with the club manager, Mrs. R. W. Getschow. Mrs. Taylor looks on. Dancing at the Saturday evening event, below, are Miss Sue Zeiss and Paul Wollwage and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaborne Jr. (Post-Crescent Photos)

A dinner dance at Riverview Country Club Saturday evening marked the closing of the club until spring. Dancing was preceded by cocktails at 6.30 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaborne Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Zeiss served as co-chairmen of the affair.

The committee was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rae, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Johannes Van den Akker, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Otte, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKee.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Wright greet Harwood Orbison, president of Riverview Country Club, and Mrs. Orbison Saturday evening at the final dinner dance of the club's year. Memorial Day and Fourth of July celebrations, a Rare Knight in June party, the Candlelight Ball in August and the Harvest Home in late October were fondly recalled as party-goers nostalgically ended another social and golf season.

Curtis, McLendon in Clash at Baker Quiz

everything being taken down." Williams is not a member of the committee but has been sitting in on the hearings.

Williams, who furnished much of the information that triggered the Baker probe, declared the Rules Committee might find it "very interesting" if it did look into various government construction projects handled by the McCloskey company.

The angry squabble took place while William K. Stewart, financial vice president of McCloskey Co., was testifying about procedures in figuring insurance premium rates.

Reynolds' Testimony

Don B. Reynolds, a Silver Spring, Md., insurance man, testified Tuesday that a $35,000 overpayment by the McCloskey firm of an insurance performance bond was really a political payoff to the Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund. Reynolds said he was the "bag man" for Baker and contractor Matthew H. McCloskey in the deal.

Curtis and Stewart verbally tiffed over failure of the McCloskey Company to provide records Curtis had requested through a government agency.

"They could do it better than we could," Stewart said of providing details on projects the McCloskey company had worked involving federal funds.

McCloskey, 71, former ambassador to Ireland, took the witness chair Wednesday and said Reynolds had lied.

"He hasn't told you the truth once," he said.

Baker, the man who Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said "could talk" and square the conflict in Reynolds and McCloskey's testimony, refused to answer questions about his role in the alleged kickback.

Reynolds told the Senate Rules Committee Tuesday he was the "bag man" for Baker and McCloskey.

He testified he wrote the performance bond for McCloskey's construction firm when it built the Washington, D.C., sports stadium and was overpaid on the premium by $35,000.

Reynolds said he gave Baker $25,000, kept $10,000 for himself, and that Baker was to funnel the money into the campaign fund.

Gross Improprieties

Baker is a former $19,600-a-year secretary to the Senate Democratic majority. An earlier inquiry into his outside business activities by the committee found him "guilty of many gross improprieties."

The nattily dressed former page boy refused to answer questions 46 times Wednesday, invoking his constitutional protection against possible self-incrimination.

McCloskey denied heatedly any knowledge of the payoff deal described by Reynolds.

"I don't care what he testified," the retired builder said.

A copy of a letter from Reynolds billing McCloskey for a performance bond on the contract was placed in evidence.

Worked Out Deal

William K. Stewart, financial vice president of the McCloskey firm, testified he worked out a deal with Reynolds and Baker whereby Reynolds' insurance company could be brokers of record on the bond and general liability insurance for the project.

Reynolds billed McCloskey for the amount of both premiums and was paid $109,205.60, Stewart said. He added Reynolds was supposed to deduct his commissions and then pay the agent in the deal for the actual amount of the insurance.

Paid Premiums Twice

Stewart claimed Reynolds must have pocketed the money he was supposed to forward to the agent, and that the McCloskey company later had to pay it.

"You paid this premium twice, then," asked Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

"Yes," said Stewart, describing it as a "goof" because nobody apparently told the agent to bill Reynolds for it.

McCloskey asserted he was going to sue to get the money back if he was sent an inflated bill, as Reynolds claimed.

Curtis said Reynolds' testimony about collecting $35,000 and transmitting $25,000 to Baker, "still hasn't been disproved."

The Nebraska senator told Stewart he could see "nothing in the explanation you have given here that makes it impossible for Reynolds' story to be true."

Sen. Cooper declared Stewart's story "could fit either theory" and that further inquiry is necessary.

is "extensive and complex" but no figures were given.

Khiem said that 60 per cent of the infiltrators have been military cadres and 40 per cent are civilians who are trained at organizing Communist cells at the village and provincial levels.

"According to captured documents and word from prisoners of war, the infiltration increased over a three year period of 1961-1963," Khiem said. "According to the figures we got we understand North Viet Nam sent between 30,000 and 40,000 people."

Khiem said the Ho Chi Minh Trail begins at Vinh, a seaport in North Viet Nam, crosses into Laos at Mui Gia Pass and runs into southeastern Laos to important supply and concentration points at Tchepone, Muong and Nong and Attapu.

North Vietnamese in Laos

Recently Gen. Phoumi Nosa-van, rightist deputy prime minister of Laos and minister of defense, said North Viet Nam has some five divisions — 20,000 men — in the territory of Laos and two-thirds of these forces are being used to protect the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

"On the supply roads, according to the information we have, North Viet Nam is using Soviet-built Molotov trucks."

"This convoy of trucks is supported by armored cars or tanks," Khiem said.

He said this information had been given to him personally by a royal Laotian army officer from Savannakhet, one of the southern military bases of the Lao government.

Khiem said that in the military field in South Viet Nam, "We are quite sure that the Communists are not able to win the war."

Jurors Poll

Both defendants kept their eyes on the jury as each member was polled at the request of a defense attorney. One juror said afterward that the panel had been in general agreement throughout the deliberations.

Ivanov smiled as he spoke privately with a representative of the Soviet Embassy and others after the verdict was announced. An embassy representative and two Russian speaking translators were present for the entire trial.

Augelli granted a request by Ivanov's attorney to continue Ivanov's bail at $100,000. The bail was put up Dec. 20 by the Soviet Embassy, permitting Ivanov to go home to his wife and daughter in New York City to await trial.

Negotiators Hope to End Crisis Within U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Negotiators worked behind the scenes at the United Nations today amid rising hopes for an agreement to clear away the world organization's deep financial and constitutional crisis.

Backstage talks being conducted by Secretary-General U. Thant got an endorsement at a three-hour meeting Wednesday between the foreign ministers of the U.N.'s biggest antagonists on the issue, the United States and the Soviet Union.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk termed his conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko "constructive." U.S. ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who sat in on the luncheon meeting, was said to feel the talks were "useful and good."

the nationalists to kill off each other and thus achieve domination for themselves."

Resembles 1945 Situation

He pointed out that a similar division among nationalist leaders existed in 1945 and led to Ho Chi Minh's gaining Communist control over the nationalist movement.

Khiem said the Vietnamese army would never back any nationalist political figures who do not take a very clear position against the Communists. The army would not back leaders who favor neutralization "or going along with President Charles de Gaulle," he said.

Khiem is a prominent Buddhist and his words appeared directed against the reported efforts of some Buddhists to revere the present government.

Khiem said the reason power was turned over to the civilians is because "we visualize the kind of war we are facing now for respect and law and order is not merely a military operation, but a political, social and political action, but a political, social and political action, but a political, social and political action."

"The army cannot fight this war alone. I think we have to give reason to the people to fight against the Communists, and if we cannot reach agreement against communism and fight against communism and fight against communism, I do think the Communists will use, they will have a better life."

But he said the political situation still is confused because full agreement has not been reached among all political leaders on a unified point of view as to the best way of fighting the Communist Viet Cong.

"It is sure that the Communists will take advantage of this confusion to make the situation more difficult," he said.

The envoy added "When I place a member of a triumvirate, we decided to take the army outside of politics and give the power to a civilian government is very difficult. If the nationalist politicians who are responsible economic war, for the present situation do not reach a common point of view war alone. I think we have to fight against the Communists, and if we cannot reach agreement against communism and fight against communism, I do think the Communists will use, they will have a better life."

a tiny minority — about 1.5 per cent — of India's 480 millions.

No previous Pope has sat down in mutual exchange with such a large representation of the intensely devout and vastly numerous eastern religions.

The 67-year-old pontiff, venturing farther afield from Rome than any other Pope, met the religious leaders in a steady series of small gatherings. He had words of esteem for them all, and voiced hopes for closer bonds.

Early in the series of audiences, he met privately with Moran Mar Baselios Ougen, Catholicos of the Orthodox Syrian Church which has about a million members. It is one of three ancient orthodox bodies separated from Rome in the Middle Ages in a complex dispute over papal supremacy.

Reconciliation Goal

Voicing determination to strive "humbly but confidently" for the reconciliation of all Christians in unity, Pope Paul told his guests "the way to full communion is a difficult one."

But it "offers an opportunity to the genuine charity of all Christians and to their patience in striving to carry out the inscrutable decrees of God," he said.

"God grant that the fraternal greeting we are exchanging now be the pledge of our common desire that, with the grace of God and according to the ways which He will determine, Catholics and the Orthodox in India may one day arrive at that happy state of unity."

Looking fresh and rested despite his 4,000-mile flight from Rome Wednesday and his tumultuous welcome, the Pope met first today with a group of Naga tribal leaders who presented him with a tribal spear and a jasmine and rose garland which he placed over the shoulders of his white cassock.

Receives Shastri

After his meeting with the religious leaders, the Pope paid a courtesy call on President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan at the government residence.

Pope Paul spent 30 minutes chatting with Radhakrishnan, Governors R. P. Chierian of Maharashtra (Bombay) State and Mehdi Newab Jung of nearby Gujarat State and their families.

The Pope gave Radhakrishnan a check for $50,000 to help India's impoverished masses. Originally he was to have distributed gifts during a walk among the destitute in Bombay's wretched slums, but this was called off to avoid offending fanatic Hindus.

The Pope also presented Radhakrishnan the Order of the Golden Spur, the highest papal decoration for non-Catholics.

Wednesday night, the pontiff received Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri before Shastri left for London.

Later the Pope drove to the vast oval site of the 38th International Eucharistic Congress to consecrate six new Roman Catholic bishops from Asia, Africa, South America, Australia, Africa and Europe.

Telling the new bishops to go forward into the world, the Pope charged them "You, the new bishops, are our greeting. You are bearers of peace."

Impressive Appeal

The consecration ceremony was generally regarded by the Pope's party as the religious high point of his visit. It fell on the feast day of St. Francis Xavier, revered by the Roman Catholic Church as the Apostle of the East. The consecration Mass honored the 16th century Spanish Jesuit missionary who died in India in 1552.

In this country, where general tolerance is preached, many were deeply impressed by the Pope's appeal shortly after his arrival for release of Hindu extremists jailed for threatening demonstrations against him.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, minister for information and daughter of the late Prime Minister Nehru, said most already had been released.

"Then tell them," the Pope said, "I am prepared to take them by the hand and treat them with affection and cordiality."

he was led from the courtroom to be taken back to the Hudson County jail, where he has been held without bail since his arrest Oct. 29, 1963.

Ivanov, a crew-cut, blond Soviet citizen listened to an earphone linked to a translator as the verdict was announced. Ivanov, who worked as a driver for a Soviet trade agency in New York, is said to speak little English.

Jurors Poll

Both defendants kept their eyes on the jury as each member was polled at the request of a defense attorney. One juror said afterward that the panel had been in general agreement throughout the deliberations.

Ivanov smiled as he spoke privately with a representative of the Soviet Embassy and others after the verdict was announced. An embassy representative and two Russian speaking translators were present for the entire trial.

Augelli granted a request by Ivanov's attorney to continue Ivanov's bail at $100,000. The bail was put up Dec. 20 by the Soviet Embassy, permitting Ivanov to go home to his wife and daughter in New York City to await trial.

Negotiators Hope to End Crisis Within U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Negotiators worked behind the scenes at the United Nations today amid rising hopes for an agreement to clear away the world organization's deep financial and constitutional crisis.

Backstage talks being conducted by Secretary-General U. Thant got an endorsement at a three-hour meeting Wednesday between the foreign ministers of the U.N.'s biggest antagonists on the issue, the United States and the Soviet Union.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk termed his conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko "constructive." U.S. ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who sat in on the luncheon meeting, was said to feel the talks were "useful and good."

Resembles 1945 Situation

He pointed out that a similar division among nationalist leaders existed in 1945 and led to Ho Chi Minh's gaining Communist control over the nationalist movement.

Khiem said the Vietnamese army would never back any nationalist political figures who do not take a very clear position against the Communists. The army would not back leaders who favor neutralization "or going along with President Charles de Gaulle," he said.

Khiem is a prominent Buddhist and his words appeared directed against the reported efforts of some Buddhists to revere the present government.

Khiem said the reason power was turned over to the civilians is because "we visualize the kind of war we are facing now for respect and law and order is not merely a military operation, but a political, social and political action, but a political, social and political action, but a political, social and political action."

"The army cannot fight this war alone. I think we have to give reason to the people to fight against the Communists, and if we cannot reach agreement against communism and fight against communism, I do think the Communists will use, they will have a better life."

Couple to Reside in Chicago

William Joseph Early Jr., Chicago, Ill., claimed Miss Donna Jean Allen, Galesburg, Ill., as his bride at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Patrick Church, Galesburg. The Rev. Timothy Cronin officiated at the double ring rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon W. Allen, Galesburg. Mr. Early's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Early 1402 S. Ritter St., Galesburg. Miss Pamela Jo Allen Galesburg, a sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. Miss Maureen Early was bridesmaid. Miss Cathy Kensel acted as flower girl and John S. Allen, ring bearer.

James Kohlross, Milwaukee, served as best man. Groomsman was John C. Guest Jr., Edward J. Lortie Jr. and Michael F. Roger ushered.

A reception was held at the Custer Inn Ballroom, Galesburg. After a wedding trip to Boyne Mountain, Mich., the couple will reside in Chicago.

Mrs. Early attended the University of Illinois and Patricia Stevens Secretarial School, Chicago and is secretary to the controller at Needham, Louis are Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Early 1402 S. Ritter St., Galesburg. Her husband attended Wisconsin State University, Eau Claire, is in the department of the same agency.

Today's Etiquette
BY LOUISE DAVIS

NOTES ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Louise: Is it considered proper to write a personal note on a Christmas card? I have recently been told that it isn't correct.

Louise Davis Answers:

Yes, it is proper and thoughtful to write personal notes and you can be sure they will be more than welcome. Unfortunately, many people today procrastinate about letter writing and do nothing about it until the holiday season arrives. In many cases these Christmas notes keep old friendships from falling apart. Rather than upset the artistic balance or composition on a page of the Christmas card, it is better to write your note on the back or even enclose a separate note.

WIDOW'S NAME

Dear Louise: Please print in your column the correct way for a widow to sign her name. If, for example, my deceased husband's name was Sam Jones and I am Mary Jones, do I continue to sign Mrs. Sam Jones as I did while he was living? Or is it Mrs. Mary Jones?

Louise Davis Answers:

Your name is still Mrs. Jones, but you shouldn't use any Mrs. with the signature which should be (and should have been) Mary Jones. If identification of your full name is needed on any correspondence, you would clarify it by writing in parentheses under the signature (Mrs. Sam Jones). This correct procedure leaves no doubt as to how to address an envelope for a reply.

Pair Says Promises

NEENAH — Miss Charr Lyn Wesenberg became the bride of Gary Lee Holz in a 2 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St. John United Church of Christ, Appleton. The Rev. John Seidler officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben V. Wesenberg, 212 Elmwood Court, Mr. and Mrs. George Holz, route 1, Hortonville, are the bridegroom's parents.

Mrs. Gordon T. Hildebrand, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Chosen as bridesmaids were Mrs. Vernon Arneson and Miss Donna Dolechek.

Best man was Robert Willen, Black Creek. Groomsman was Vernon Arneson and James Rathseck. Serving as ushers were Gordon T. Hildebrand and LeRoy Holz.

The Silver Dome Ballroom, Greenville, was the setting for a reception. The newlyweds will live at 119 Washington Ave., after a wedding trip through southern states and the Great Smoky Mountains.

Mrs. Holz is employed by Marathon Paper Products of American Can Co., Menasha. Her husband is employed by the Shiocton Lumber Co., Shiocton.

Long Walk on Short Dock Advised for Snoopy Gossip

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week the woman next door told me (literally over the back fence) she was sure the couple next door is not married. She said, "I happen to know his first wife would not give him a divorce."

I said "I don't know where my marriage license is and even if I did I'd be darned if I'd show it to anyone unless it was demanded by a court."

The woman then hinted that my husband and I weren't married and maybe I'd better find the license to clear my name. She claims people who have nothing to hide don't resent being asked for proof. Express yourself on this please.—Burning

Ruff Loser
In some hands you may either ruff your losers in dummy or set up dummy's long suit to discard your losers. The choice depends on the entire hand, but remember one point if you decide to ruff losers in the dummy: make sure you ruff with an otherwise worthless trump.
South planned to try the heart finesse and took the most direct route to his hand by winning the first trick with the queen of spades. Now it was no longer safe to ruff a heart in dummy since dummy's only trumps were the ace and king, both needed for drawing trumps. Not seeing his danger, South tried the heart finesse, losing to the king. Back came a heart to dummy's ace.
When South eventually ruffed a heart in dummy he had to use the king of trumps for the purpose. This set up East's jack of trumps, and now South was sure to lose one trick in each suit.

Miss Mundinger
June Rite
Planned by Engaged Pair

MANAWA—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mundinger, 158 Euclid Ave., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Wilbur Hopp. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hopp, Clintonville.
The bride-elect is employed at the Clintonville Lumber and Supply Co., Clintonville. Her fiancé is employed at American Can Co., Neenah.
A June wedding is planned.

South should preserve dummy's low trump for the heart ruff. Declarer wins the first trick in dummy with the king of trumps and gets to his hand with a high diamond for the heart finesse.

If East returns a trump, declarer must again win in dummy. He clears the ace of hearts out of the way and gets to his hand with a high diamond to lead his last heart. When he ruffs this with dummy's deuce of trumps, the hand is made.

It is then easy for South to get back with the ace of clubs to draw the last trump with the queen. Ten tricks are assured.

Actually, most experts would play for dummy's clubs instead of playing to ruff a heart in dummy. It is easy to set up the clubs in spite of the bad break in the suit. But this is another story. The important thing is to handle the trumps correctly if you do decide to ruff a heart in dummy.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S Q 7 6 4 3; H 8 5 4; D A K 6; C A 5. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one spade. You have 13 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, and the total is enough for a mandatory opening bid.

Orange and Onion
Orange and onion salad is great with roast chicken, turkey or duck. Serve the fruit and vegetable combination (sliced thin) on mixed greens and top with ripe olives, pimiento or capers. At the table mix the salad with French dressing, salt (if needed) and freshly-ground pepper.

A Lovelier You
By Mary Sue Miller

At Home Dress

BY MARY SUE MILLER
At-home clothes are fascinating, reminiscent of those worn by the fascinators of the 30's—Lombard, Garbo and Shearer. Long crepe pajamas, with the flow of an extravagantly full skirt, look as though they had stepped right out of a Lombard movie.
In handsome corduroys and woolly greatcoats, one sees the continuing influence of the great Garbo. Shearer is brought to mind by lacy frills and ruffles on long, floating hostess gowns of gleaming velvet.
But perhaps high drama on the home front is not your cup of fashion. You like cozy, casual at-home — a quilted calico or flocked fleece housecoat, for instance.
Or owing to chores and children, there's no place at all in your life for any such folderol. To that we say "Ichi!"
Evening Extravagance
Not having something special to wear for home evenings is both cheerless and extravagant. Cheerless because it leads to "wearing out" dowdy old clothes around the house. Extravagant because Sunday-best clothes must be worn for entertaining, and then their chance of survival is negative.
It is not as though there were a dearth of attractive, inexpensive at-homes. At small cost, such delights are to be had as gay separates, wildly flowered muu-muus, and bright smocks—long ones and short ones, and all in washable winter fabrics. Any of them would turn a chore girl into a dream girl. So nice to come home to!

Bake Sale Ingredients: Sugar, Spice, Concern for Retarded

BY HAZEL THIEL

Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — Ingredients of care, love and hope are being stirred by Calumet County women, along with sugar and spice, as they bake for what they hope will soon be a Day Care Center for the county's mentally retarded.

Interested people have realized for sometime the need for such a center, and bake sales in most of the villages and towns in the county are being sponsored this weekend by the Calumet Homemakers and their friends.

The venture was planned during the recent National Mentally Retarded Week, in co-operation with the Calumet County Mentally Retarded Association.

Homemakers were contacted "because they are mothers".

The county group also has an enviable culinary record, having authored a cook-book now in its third printing and being used throughout the country.

Because of their limited membership, other groups have joined hands in baking for the sale. Many did not wait to be asked, but voluntarily agreed to bake; others are being contacted by telephone, and in turn asked to "telawoman" about the project. The personal contact and woman's touch is expected to add success. All proceeds will remain in the county.

While there are 36 children in day, and in Darboy, Sunday, three schools here this year. Location and time of bake people associated with the retarded program point out that Company, 3 p.m., with Mrs. there are about 200 children in James Knaut, 317 North Madison Street, chairman.

Of these 175 have been At Hilbert the sale will be at tested, according to County Superintendent of Schools, Francis J. Flanagan, beginning at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Armin Schwal.

Hoped For

The association feels if it starts small, eventually it may be able to have a Day Care Center. The sale will be the setting for a workshop and class. The bake sale at 3:30 p.m. Mrs. rooms. At present two special C. C. Supita and Mrs. Herman classes are taught at Chilton and Forest Junction, with training able children attending two sessions at Twain School, east of E.U.B. Church, where Mrs. Stockbridge.

Hearing of the need for such a building being dreamed of by 3:30 p.m. Brillion sale, headed by Mrs. Henry Horn Jr. at the ed by Mrs. C. C. Supita, New Brillion Auto Company Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. James Mrs. Gilbert Ortlieb and Mrs. Toth of the Toth Nursing Home Donald Ertl will have charge of in Chilton, have offered the bakery at the Stockbridge sale basement of their establishment at Leitners Service Store, starting at the initial place for the center. It is, of course, subject to state approval.

The building, opened this year, has separate basement entrances, which would prevent any disturbance of patients in the main building.

Many of the retarded in the Making Cookies for the Bake Sale to be held throughout Calumet County this weekend in support of a proposed day care center for retarded children, members of the Sherwood Wide Awake 4-H Club tried out their favorite recipes. Making cookies, above, the youngsters asked a young retarded friend, Miss Jean Carney, right, to help. The young cooks are Mary Kiefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kiefer, route 1, Menasha, and Mary Gillis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gillis, route 1, Menasha. Pair Weds In Double Ring Rite

NEENAH — St. Gabriel Catholic Church was the setting for the 11 a.m. Nov. 26 double ring wedding of Miss Karen LeRoy, 1095D Gillingham Road, and Roger T. Reinemann, 1040 W. Cecil St.

The Rev. Michael Clifford performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Knaapen, Sturgeon Bay, and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Reinemann, Porterfield.

The couple's sisters, Miss Lois LeRoy and Mrs. Ronald Vreeke, served as the bride's attendants. The bridegroom chose his brothers, Floyd and Dr. John Reinemann, as his attendants.

Mrs. Reinemann

Ushers were Glenn Reinemann and Robert Stoneman.

A reception took place at the Country Aire Club, Appleton. The couple will live at 1040 W. Cecil St., after a wedding trip through southern states.

The bride is employed by Kimberly-Clark Corp. Her husband is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and is employed by the Wisconsin Telephone Co.

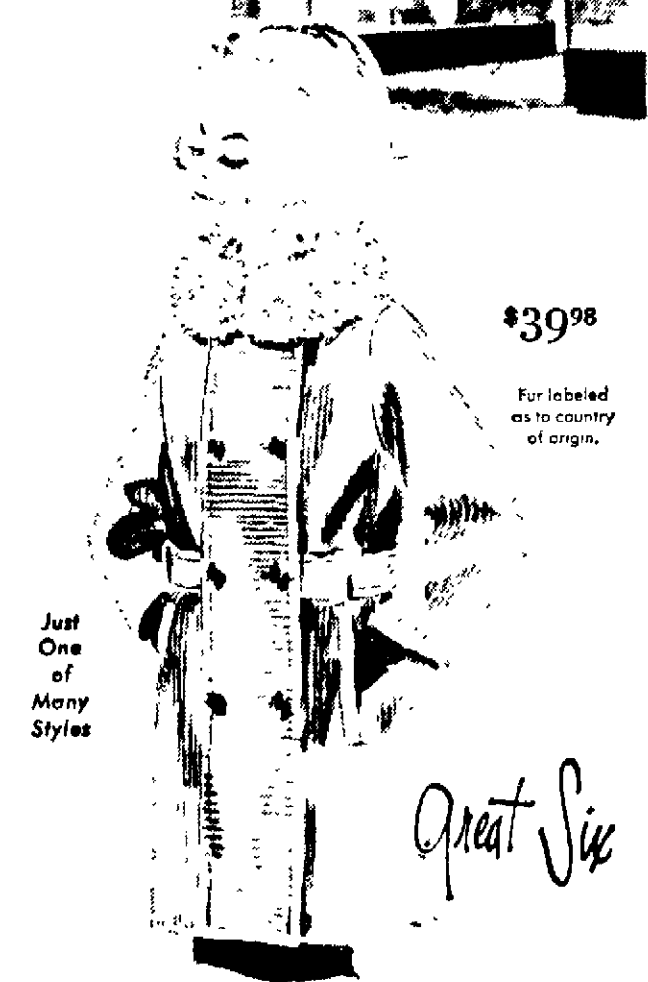

Golden Agers Set Christmas Dinner, Party

KAUKAUNA — The annual Christmas party for members of the Golden Age Club will be held at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 9 at the Hub Bar.

The invocation at the dinner will be given by Mrs. Helen Lau, organization president. Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon will give the official welcome. Miss Patty Landreman, Miss Lynn Hurst and Miss Cathy Skibba, known as the Devonshires, will sing for the group.

Frank Pechman will show slides of Spain and narrate his trip. The Gerald Mader family will also sing for the party.

Riverview Country Club Dinner Dance Ends Social Activities for the Year

Dr. Arthur Taylor, above, shakes hands with the club manager, Mrs. R. W. Getschow. Mrs. Taylor looks on. Dancing at the Saturday evening event, below, are Miss Sue Zeiss and Paul Wollwage and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaborne Jr. (Post-Crescent Photos)

A dinner dance at Riverview Country Club Saturday evening marked the closing of the club until spring. Dancing was preceded by cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaborne Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Zeiss served as co-chairmen of the affair.

The committee was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rae, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Johannes Van den Akker, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Otte, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKee.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Wright greet Harwood Orbison, president of Riverview Country Club, and Mrs. Orbison Saturday evening at the final dinner dance of the club's year. Memorial Day and Fourth of July celebrations, a Rare Knight in June party, the Candlelight Ball in August and the Harvest Home in late October were fondly recalled as party-goers nostalgically ended another social and golf season.

NOTES ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Louise. Is it considered proper to write a personal note on a Christmas card? I have recently been told that it isn't correct.

Louise Davis Answers: Yes, it is proper and thoughtful to write personal notes and you can be sure they will be more than welcome. Unfortunately, many people today procrastinate about letter writing and do nothing about it until the holiday season arrives. In many cases, these Christmas notes keep old friendships from falling apart. Rather than upset the artistic balance or composition on a page of the Christmas and New Year message it is better to write your note on the back or even enclose a separate note.

WIDOW'S NAME

Dear Louise. Please print in your column the correct way for a widow to sign her name. If, for example, my deceased husband's name was Sam Jones and I am Mary Jones, do I continue to sign Mrs. Sam Jones as I did while he was living? Or is it Mrs. Mary Jones?

Louise Davis Answers: Your name is still Mrs. Jones, but you shouldn't use any Mrs. with the signature which should be (and should have been) Mary Jones. If identification of your full name is needed on any correspondence, you would clarify it by writing in parentheses under the signature (Mrs. Sam Jones). This correct procedure leaves no doubt as how to address an envelope for a reply.

Pair Says Promises

NEENAH — Miss Charr Lyn Wesenberg became the bride of Gary Lee Holz in a 2 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St. John United Church of Christ, Appleton. The Rev. John Seidler officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben V. Wesenberg, 212 Elmwood Court. Mr. and Mrs. George Holz, route 1, Hortonville, are the bridegroom's parents.

Mrs. Gordon T. Hildebrand, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Chosen as bridesmaids were Mrs. Vernon Arneson and Miss Donna Dolechek.

Best man was Robert Willen-kamp, Black Creek. Groomsman was Vernon Arneson and James Rathsek. Serving as ushers were Gordon T. Hildebrand and LeRoy Holz.

The Silver Dome Ballroom, Greenville, was the setting for a reception. The newlyweds will live at 119 Washington Ave., after a wedding trip through southern states and the Great Smoky Mountains.

Mrs. Holz is employed by Marathon Paper Products of American Can Co., Menasha. Her husband is employed by the Shiocton Lumber Co., Shiocton.

Accommodation or Agreement?

John Henry Galbraith, our former ambassador to India and now professor of economics at Harvard, told managing editors of American newspapers meeting in Arizona that a problem in our foreign policy in dealing with Communist countries is "the myth . . . of implacable conflict. The reality is practical accommodation."

In general we have agreed that some form of accommodation with the realities of the existence of Communist nations—and Communist military power—must be part of our foreign policy. But Galbraith apparently interprets "accommodation" to mean "agreement," at least from his discussion of the dispute over the assessments due to the United Nations by the Soviet Union and Communist bloc countries.

"Neither we nor the Russians want to see the other side leave New York," said Galbraith. "It would have been more sensible to have seen this from the beginning. We would have done so had everyone been guided by the realities of the relationship." This relationship involves not confronting "each other in such a fashion that we give the other country no alternative but to fight. . . . We both support the United Nations, not as a final solution to the world's problems but as a shock absorber and as diluent of great power monopoly in world politics."

But at this point it is clear that this was the policy and understanding of the United States but not of the Soviet Union. Our Ambassador to the U.N., Adlai Stevenson, suggested that Russia contribute enough money to get it clear of the two years in debt but that the funds would be used for other agencies than the peace keeping ones to which the Russians object. The Soviet Union turned the suggestion down flat. Secretary General U Thant came up with several other proposals aimed at giving the Russians the opportunity to save face. They were all summarily discarded by the Soviet representatives. Finally the Secretary General made a valiant effort to postpone the showdown until after the Christmas holidays by proposing that everything to be decided in the General Assembly be done by acclamation which would avoid having to determine which countries were eligible to vote.

The trouble with all this is that Galbraith infers that the problem has been caused by the United States. This is not simply a confrontation between opposing views of the United States and the Soviet Union. The Charter of the United Nations states that a member shall lose his vote if he falls more than two years behind. The Soviet Union ratified the Charter. The General Assembly decided that it agreed with the decision of the International Court of Justice that assessments for special agencies should also be binding. It is the United Nations which will collapse without this sounder financial basis, not the United States.

How would Professor Galbraith solve the dispute without opening the door to a general refusal to pay assessments by all the members of the United Nations?

One of the flaws in the more liberal advisors on our foreign policy is their tendency to react to the criticism and suggestions from the more conservative by taking ultra stands themselves. The right wing demands a tougher line toward Communist nations so the liberals insist upon more accommodation. The conservatives speak of total conflict between the Communist and free nations, so the liberals seem to prefer avoiding such conflict at any price. Of course we have to have a form of accommodation with all the nations of the world. But who is singling out the Communists as special problems by insisting upon giving in to them every time a dispute arises?

By all means we should review such decisions as our refusal to recognize Red China or the Castro regime ever so often since situations do change and so do the threats before us. But too often the liberals' point of view sees such review as necessarily a reversal. The reality of existing in the same world with the Communists without blowing us all up does not mean acceding to their every demand.

Motorola Case in Court

The precedent-setting Motorola case is headed for the courts, and employers all over the country will be watching with interest.

The Motorola company gave a general aptitude test to a Negro who had applied for employment. He answered only four of 28 simple questions correctly and was refused a job. The Negro promptly filed a charge of racial discrimination against the company with the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission.

An examiner who heard the complaint ruled the firm was guilty of discriminatory hiring, said the test was unfair to "culturally deprived and disadvantaged groups," ordered the company to stop giving the test and to hire the applicant. The company appealed to the five-member state commission.

In a recent decision the commission sidestepped the vital issue but criticized the company. It ordered Motorola to pay the complainant $1,000 as compensation for his "expense, embarrassment and possible loss of employment." But it did not order the company to hire the man and it did not rule on the use of aptitude tests in hiring.

The company feels that this is a step in the direction of outlawing the use of such tests, and has appealed the case to Cook County circuit court. It charges that the commission wants to impose a state-regimented philosophy of hiring and that this is an infringement on the right of management to manage.

The case began early this year before the federal Civil Rights Act was passed by Congress and was used by opponents of the civil rights legislation as an example of what might happen under the federal law.

The basic issue here is not the hiring of Negroes or whites. The issue is whether a company can set intelligence standards for new employees, even though in some areas such standards might mitigate against the underprivileged.

The Motorola Company will have the moral support of all employers in seeking legal clarification of this principle.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Dec. 8, 1864.

There is no better illustration of the spirit in which the present war is waged by their respective parties to it than is afforded by the treatment of prisoners on either side.

The rebel prisoners, men taken with arms in their hands, while engaged in the attempt to destroy a Government guilty of no act of oppression towards them, are humanely cared for, protected from the inclemency of the weather and bountifully fed. The Union prisoners, captured while defending their country and its flag, are, on the other hand, exposed to every contumely and treated with a severity such as is in no civilized country visited upon by the vilest malefactors.

They are robbed of their money, stripped of their clothing, exposed, unsheltered in all seasons; kept upon the scantiest possible pittance of food and that rendered as unpalatable as is capable of being made, huddled together in the narrowest of limits, as if for the express purpose of rendering their condition as horrible as possible, and, as if with premeditated purpose, the combined agencies of filth, famine and burnine or freezing skies engender death and disease among them. If they attempt to escape the cruelties of their loathsome confinement, they are hunted with bloodhounds like wild beasts.

Rebels Look Well
The comparative condition of the two classes of prisoners as they were brought forward for exchange at Savannah recently shows the results of different methods of treatment. The Savannah Republican of the 14th says that about 2,000 rebels had been brought to that city, and adds:

"The prisoners, for the most part, look far better than we expected, after the hardships of their long confinement and, in many instances, brutal treatment."

"Many say they wish no further, but desire to be sent immediately to the front, where they will have an opportunity of getting even with their captors."

The charges of "brutish treatment" and "hardships of confinement" are best answered by the condition of the prisoners, who are reported ready to proceed at once to the front and resume their places in the army of the traitors.

Eye-Witness Report
No doubt their quarters and their food while prisoners were luxurious compared with the rebel army fare (for Union prisoners).

Now mark the contrast presented by the Union prisoners exchanged. The correspondent for the New York Times who accompanied our fleet with the rebel prisoners, writing from Savannah, describes the Union men received in exchange as follows:

"Men looking like skeletons, almost naked, shoeless, hairless, and spiritless; men with no other garment than overcoats; men with skins blackened by dirt, with bones protruding as loosely as bark on a tree; men whose very presence is disgusting, exhaling an odor so fetid that it almost stops the breath of those unaccustomed to it."

U. S. Policy in Congo Is as Vascillating as in Viet Nam

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I wonder if the American public will soon demand a change in our foreign policy to eliminate policies as have been demonstrated in the Congo during the Kennedy-Johnson administration:

1. This administration forced the Belgians to depart the Congo leaving it in chaos.
2. This administration forced Tshombe to leave his position in the Congo.
3. After a chaotic two years Tshombe was asked by the Congolese to return to the Congo to direct the operation of its government.
4. This administration has been following a policy of dilly-dallying since Tshombe's return because it would not admit the original error of deporting Tshombe.

5. Finally, the demonstration of dilly-dallying the past ten days has resulted in almost 300 deaths attributed to the Communist operation. Had we been positive in our policies sooner this would have been avoided. I have never heard of Russians slaughtered.

These 300 represent the cream of the crop in the Congo. All readers will have noted the pictures of dead Congolese who were the community leaders. This slaughter as in Viet Nam is part of the communist program for victory, not a race issue, and all Negroes should make note of this. When the community and economic leaders such as Tshombe can be eliminated then it is far easier for a take over. This could be yours or my fate. Think about it!

Meanwhile, our State Department and government are apologetic for this operation where Americans have died, and strangely, this is true throughout our entire foreign policy. Why? American deaths caused by communists number in the thousands since WW II.

The American voter remains fat, dumb and happy because only a relatively few families have been affected. There are not enough bereaved mothers, fathers, widows, orphans and relatives yet affected. It is a crime that we are showing such little concern for fellow Americans dying for us.

Let us remember where economic stability exists, no matter at what level, communists are unable to take over. Let us also take a vow that all Americans killed by the communists have not died in vain.

Legislators Should Unite In Support of New College

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am writing this because I am sure that a letter written by Senator Gerald Lorge and printed in the People's Forum Nov. 25 has left many people, as it has left me, a bit confused.

The Senator indicated that the recommendation that Green Bay be the site for the construction of a new four year university was a mere suggestion made by three cronies of our present Governor, John W. Reynolds. Then the Senator goes on to say that it will be a very difficult job to convince the Governor that the school should be built here rather than the Green Bay area. Has the Senator forgotten that a new governor, and one who heads his political party, will be the ultimate decision maker on this question?

Also, we should not forget that unlike Governor Reynolds, who had committed himself in favor of immediately starting the machinery in motion on this subject, Governor-elect Warren P. Knowles has chosen to remain mute.

Although I personally disagree with the recommendation of this committee, looking at the past record of the Republican Party with regard to higher education in the State of Wisconsin the outlook for this university in this area or any area for that matter is very doubtful.

Therefore, I suggest that the civic leaders and legislators in this 15 county Fox Valley area unite to convince our new governor that this school is needed and should be built rather than worry about where it is built.

I hope in all sincerity the Governor-elect does not follow the philosophy of his party's presidential candidate, Senator Barry Goldwater, with regard to education. I also hope that the suggestion made by the Senator from the 14th District was not made to pave the way for another study on this subject. I am sure that all the questions regarding the school have been asked and answered, studied and analyzed. Any further study would only waste taxpayers' money.

If those people who are concerned are truly concerned let us begin by convincing our new governor that we in the north need this four year university, period. Then we can work together, I am sure, to have it located in the very best possible location.

Wisconsin Report

Governor, Lieutenant Governor Should Run As Team on Ballot

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—One of the more persistent questions in recent weeks has related to the separation of the offices of governor and lieutenant governor in the election process. It is not of major importance in the politics of Wisconsin, perhaps, but it appears to have considerable interest, nevertheless.

The queries relate to the fact that in each of the last two Wisconsin state elections the people have given slender majorities to governors and lieutenant governors of rival parties. Today Democratic Gov. Reynolds and Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Olson hold the offices. A month hence they will surrender their places, ironically enough, to Republican Warren P. Knowles and Democratic Patrick J. Lucey. The fact that candidates for president and vice president run on a single ballot, and win or lose together, is fresh in the public mind. Why the difference in Wisconsin, the man in the office next door has demanded several times recently, as others have echoed the query.

WHY NOT?

There is no good reason for the difference. Why the separation evolved in Wisconsin would require a review of the proceedings of the state constitutional conventions. As a guess, the matter probably did not occur to the men who wrote the constitutional laws of Wisconsin.

The assumption probably was that the candidates for the two top offices on the same party ticket would probably survive or sink as a team, without a partnership by law. As it turned out, that reasoning would have been fairly sound, for memory does not provide many examples of men of opposite political affiliation in the No. 1 and No. 2 places at the capitol. Mostly party nominees who won the governorship were flanked by lieutenant governors of the same persuasion—until the exceptions of the last two terms. Some of these queries suggest an exaggerated conception of the role of the lieutenant governor and his place in the state capitol scheme. Actually it is a fairly innocuous office. The only real duty of the official is to preside over the State Senate, when it is in session, and that under normal circumstances is for only a small part of the two-year term. Politically the place is important because it provides a logical base from which to rise to the governorship. Legally it is important, as in the case of the vice presidency, because the lieutenant governor succeeds to the governorship in the event of death or incapacitation of the governor.

For that reason alone the idea of a joint ballot for governor and lieutenant governor appears logical and wise to most persons. And in the absence of any real reason for their separation on the ballot, the joint election requirement would probably have broad public support if it is put to a test, as in a constitutional amendment such as has been proposed.

BUT . . .

Yet any knowledgeable person who reflects on the proposal will wonder whether it should stop there.

Should not the rest of the ballot be chosen as a party team also? The offices of secretary of state and state treasurer could be dropped from the elective process altogether, with no harm to the spirit of popular government, and perhaps with some improvement.

But as vital, and perhaps more important, to the success of an administration is the office of attorney general. Any man who has ever been governor will testify that the attorney general is more important to him than any other elective official in the system.

A governor who has an attorney general of a rival party can be constantly frustrated and denied. If there is gain in a compatible governor and lieutenant governor combination, there is probably more gain in bringing the attorney general into the partnership. It is worth notice in passing that here the voters have chosen with equal uncertainty, replacing a Republican attorney general who had served a Democratic governor with a Democratic attorney general who will be serving a Republican governor for the next two years.

Strictly Personal

It Is Weak Men, Not Strong, Who Are Cruel

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Most people who think they disagree about "government," really disagree about "police"—their differences lie in which segment of society they feel should be most punished.

It is a seductive half-truth of Emerson's that "the value of a principle is the number of things it will explain;" for a principle that explains too many things is valueless, and probably paranoid.

In nine cases out of ten, to ask for advice is covertly to ask that our private decision be publicly confirmed, that our judgement be flattered and our preconceptions bolstered.

It is weak men, not strong men, who are cruel—for cruelty is almost always an admission of failure of character in the past, and a desperate effort to rectify by pain what should have been prevented by firmness.

Modern historical research is nearly useless if it does not use the tools of depth—psychology to help explain events; for instance, a knowledge of the conflicting drives within Woodrow Wilson tells us more about the failure of the League of Nations than reams of research about the political machinations of the isolationists of that period.

While inarticulateness is the defect of the slow-witted, glibness is the defect of the quick-witted; and the latter should always keep in mind Acton's admonition: "No man has a right to speak more clearly than he thinks."

The rest of us smile at the way the very rich indulge in petty economies while at the same time they commit profound extravagances; but this seeming contradiction is merely the way in which they try to maintain a precarious hold on their financial self-respect and reassure themselves that they are not profligate; it has much the same emotional dynamics as the case of the prostitute or gangster sending a daughter to a convent school.

I was most amused to read John O'Hara's statement that movies are getting too "dirty;" to anyone who has read O'Hara's novels, this is like Michiavelli complaining about "dirty politics" in Florence; and it is only further confirmation of the melancholy fact that no man's image of himself conforms to reality.

When a mother says "I can't handle" a small refractory child, what she really means is that she can't handle her own contradictory impulses, part of which secretly sympathize with and encourage the child's revolt.

Potomac Fever— by Jack Wilson

The Programs Announced 'Christmas is Here,' and guests at the Holiday Flower Show Wednesday and Thursday at historic Hazelwood in Green Bay needed no other convincing. The nine Federated Garden Clubs of Green Bay who cooperated in the show with the Neville Public Museum had filled every attractive corner of the newly-acquired state landmark with the sights of the favorite holiday. Below, Mrs. Harlan Hirschy, Mrs. Royal Gooding and Mrs. Elmer Hauge, officers of the Neenah-Menasha House and Garden Club of the YWCA look at the arrangements. A contingent of seven women from the club made the trip to Green Bay to see the show. At right, Mrs. Herman Martin and Mrs. Clarence F. Martin, both of Oshkosh, look at the tree adorning the exterior. (Post-Crescent News Service Photos)

Your Problems

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS Last week the woman next door told me (literally over the back fence) she was sure the couple next door is not married. She said, "I happen to know his first wife would not give him a divorce."

The couple under discussion has young children. They are where it is) I'd tell them to go take a long walk on a short dock.

DEAR ANN LANDERS What is wrong with a wife who will not recognize apple pie in a cafeteria?

Myrtle is 58, a school teacher and intelligent. Last night we were having dinner out. Myrtle pointed to a slice of apple pie and asked, "What kind is that?" The young man replied, "That's apple, Lady." Myrtle answered, "Oh, I thought it was peach." The young man looked at her and said, "I thought everybody knew what apple pie looked like."

Myrtle gave him an icy stare and replied, "Thank you, I'll take cherry." All the while she was holding up the line. I'd like your opinion.—L.L. From Atlanta

Dear L. L.: My opinion is that I can't imagine anything about which an opinion mattered less.

I am printing your letter to show a few million readers what SOME people consider a problem.

Did it ever occur to you that Myrtle's eyesight isn't as good as it used to be? Now—do you want to take her out and shoot her?

DEAR ANN LANDERS. I'd appreciate it if you'd print this pleasant and they mind their own business. When the gossip asked if I thought she should demand to see their marriage license "to put an end to all the talk." I told her this was not a police state and to forget it. She shot back, "I can show you my marriage license. Can you show me yours?"

I said "I don't know where my marriage license is, and even if I did I'd be darned if I'd show it to anyone unless it was demanded by a court."

The woman then hinted that my husband and I weren't married and maybe I'd better find the license to clear my name. She claims people who have nothing to hide don't resent being asked for proof. Express yourself on this please.—Burning

Dear Burning: In America a person is innocent until proven guilty. If anyone asked me to produce my marriage license (and I know precisely

Engagement Of Daughter Announced

BLACK CREEK—The engagement of Miss Sandra Lee Stutzman to Roger H. Korth has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stutzman, Black Creek. Mr. Korth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Korth, 1906 N. Charlotte St., Appleton.

Miss Stutzman is a senior at Fox Valley Lutheran High School. Her fiancé is employed by United Grocers Inc., Little Chute.

No wedding date has been chosen.

letter for all 14½-year-old girls to see.

I want to say how thankful I am that my parents didn't let me do all the things I wanted to do when I was 11. In the 6th grade I wanted heels and nylons, lipstick and the whole bit. I didn't see why I couldn't go to boy-girl parties. I was big for my age and thought I was mature.

When my parents said "no," I was sure they were old-fashioned and mean besides I told them their ancient ideas were ruining my life.

I'm getting these privileges this year and I really appreciate them now. I want to say to my Mom and Dad: "Thanks for a job well done." — Grateful Daughter

Dear Daughter: The job isn't done yet — but, thank goodness, you're well on the way. Write to me on your 21st birthday.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dog License Notice and Tax Bills do Not Mix

Dog license notices and tax bills don't mix, Appleton City Treasurer Ray L. Feuerstein told the city council Wednesday night.

Feuerstein opposed a recommendation of the welfare-ordinance committee that his office include notices with as estimated 20,000 tax bills to be mailed later this month.

The committee had included in its report a copy of the dog license notice and application blank it wanted sent with tax bills in the form of a "flyer," about 2,000 dog owners in the city and questioned the need for sending out 20,000 "license due" notices.

After the reading of the recommendation, Ald. Alvin E. Tews

(5th) said he recalled, several years ago a practice of including notices and announcements with tax bills was discontinued by order of the council.

Feuerstein was asked if he wanted to comment on the proposal and he did.

"First, I would like to inform the council I was not called in by the committee," Feuerstein said. "I wish I had been and could have explained why the proposal wouldn't work."

Feuerstein said there were about 2,000 dog owners in the city and questioned the need for sending out 20,000 "license due" notices.

Coroners To Discuss Blood Tests

Thirteen locations throughout Wisconsin have been named by the state motor vehicle department as sites for meetings with coroners this month to discuss a new blood testing program.

In a letter sent today, Dan F. Schutz, safety director, announced the department now has available a complete blood testing laboratory and is urging coroners to take advantage of the facilities.

Schutz noted that many reports of fatal accident cases did not contain information taken on blood samplings. Schutz said that the motor vehicle department will furnish coroners with blood samplings kits for their use.

Coroners from Outagamie, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Calumet, Sheboygan and Manitowish counties will meet Wednesday, Dec. 8 in the Calumet County courthouse, Chilton.

with people misplacing tax bills after they get them," Feuerstein added, "and when they see a dog license notice, and don't have a pet, are liable to throw the mail away."

Feuerstein said his office was "mightily busy just getting out the tax bills" and his staff did not have time to stuff them with dog notices.

He explained dog license fees collected during January are turned over to Outagamie County.

Money obtained from license fees the remaining 11 months of the year goes into the police pension fund, Feuerstein said.

"Other Junk"

"These tax bills are too important and should not be cluttered up with other junk," Feuerstein said.

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings (7th) said she had conferred with Feuerstein when preparing the recommendation for the committee.

"You asked about dog licenses but you didn't say what for," Feuerstein said.

Mrs. Stillings said she felt it was proper to send them attached to the tax bills.

However, the proposal was referred back to committee and never did come up for a vote.

Race Says He Will Meet With Knowles

OSHKOSH — Rep.-Elect John A. Race said Wednesday at a Fond du Lac victory dinner he will request a meeting with Gov.-Elect Warren P. Knowles to develop "positive guides along which we could work for greater industry in Wisconsin."

Race said "Knowles has pledged efforts to attract new industry to the state and I think the Sixth District should take full advantage of such efforts."

The congressman-elect said "the acquisition of new industry should be a bipartisan effort and if Mr. Knowles is serious in his intent he should have the full backing of all state political leaders."

Race said "the Sixth District is already one of the fine industrial centers of the country and one whose present industries are expanding. It is also one of the areas that people from other parts of Wisconsin migrate to in an effort to find better employment and a better way of life."

"The Sixth District is an ideal location for new industry. Its availability to a good labor supply and its proximity to markets is above average. It has an abundance of fresh water as well as an excellent transportation system to move both raw materials and finished products."

Vol. II.] SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1776. [Num. 228.

In CONGRESS, July 4, 1776.
A Declaration by the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled.

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God intitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, That all men are created equal; that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependant on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independant of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:
For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:
For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighbouring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens taken captive on the high seas to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, and friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in GENERAL CONGRESS assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connexion between them and the state of Great-Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that, as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

Signed by order and in behalf of Congress,
JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Answer: 10 advertisers

Did you think the Declaration of Independence was carried around on parchment scrolls and read in town squares by little old men wearing funny hats, white pony tails and ringing little bells?

Not so. The historic news was spread by papers like The Pennsylvania Evening Post (above). And these papers were supported by advertisers like Hyns Taylor, upholsterer, and David Pancoast, realtor (also above).

The same holds true today.

Without advertisers, the paper you're reading right now might cost one dollar or more.

(At those prices some people would much rather wait for the little old man ringing the little bell.)

What you paid for this newspaper today just about covers the cost of the paper it's printed on.

Everything else—the entire cost of world-wide and local news gathering, pictures, features, the actual engravings, typesetting and printing—has to be borne by local and national advertising.

It's the same with magazines, radio and television. Perhaps we wouldn't be in the dark ages without advertising, but we'd certainly be in the dark.

Of course there's always the possibility that the government would subsidize newspapers, magazines, radio and television.

But in that case, we could hardly expect members of the government to use these media to publicize their own shortcomings or mistakes.

It is apparent, then, that advertising is intimately connected with freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

Because there are advertisers who want to tell you the difference between products, there are newspapers (and radio and television) to tell you the difference between political candidates.

There are some countries, you know, where they don't have a choice between political candidates. Or products.

Many College Freshmen Have to Be Taught How to Read and Write

BY G. K. RODENFIELD

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nation's colleges spend more than $10 million a year in "bonehead" English courses, trying to teach 150,000 college freshmen what they should have learned about writing in high school.

You'll find the course in colleges where admission standards are low, and in such highly selective institutions as the University of California at Berkeley

"I'll bet you'll find this problem on every campus in the country. It goes right on into the graduate school.

"We have some students coming here who have had calculus and other advanced math in high school. But they can't write. You'd think they would have some mastery of their mother tongue. But they don't."

Probably every college in the country offering bonehead English would like to get rid of it.

It's expensive, it takes up the time of instructors badly needed elsewhere, in most cases it carries no college credit, and it's really not the responsibility of a college to teach basic English.

Moreover, says Prof. Harris Wilson of the University of Illinois, "there's a psychological factor involved. Teachers and bonehead English But, says

Chancellor Edward W. Strong of

KNOW is bonehead. It discourages them."

Harris was interviewed here last week during the annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English.

Many institutions have debated abolishing the courses. The University of Illinois actually did, in 1960, after giving the high schools in the state a four-year advance warning.

"What happened?" "We're glad," Harris said. "We've never missed the course, not for a single day. We'll never go back to it."

When the University of Illinois was offering Rhetoric 100 — the bonehead course — the failure rate in the regular freshman English class was about five per cent.

When Rhetoric 100 was abolished in 1960, and all freshmen had to take the regular course, the failure rate shot up to 15 per cent. Now it's down to about five per cent again.

Statistics Mislabeled Wilson said, however, that such statistics can be misleading.

"The admission standards at the University of Illinois have been going up regularly. It may be that we now are denying admission to those students who would have been assigned to the bonehead course if it were still available."

But if the University of Illinois has abolished bonehead English at the freshman level, it still has it in the junior year.

"All students making less than a 'B' in the second semester of freshman English must take a qualifying examination in the second semester of their sophomore year," Wilson said.

"About 60 per cent of the students have to take the exam, and about half of these flunk it."

Junior Classmen "That means that in any given semester, we will have 500-600 university juniors taking Rhetoric 200, an upper-level English course. They have to pass this course before they can be graduated."

Rhetoric 100 — the freshman bonehead course, was at about the junior high school level, Wilson said. Rhetoric 200, for the juniors, is the rough equivalent of an average high school English course.

"No university should have to offer such courses as these," he said. "It's ridiculous that students come to college so poorly prepared in something as basic as writing a simple English sentence."

"We worked with high school English teachers for four years before we abolished Rhetoric 100. We told them that they would have to turn out better prepared students."

Some Improvement "It didn't seem to help much, although perhaps there has been some improvement."

Wilson doesn't blame the teachers themselves as much as it he blames the heavy work load they carry.

"If a teacher has 150-200 students, how can he assign even one theme a week?" he asked.

"If he spends just 10 minutes correcting each theme, that's a minimum of 25 to 33 hours a week of work outside the classroom. There just isn't that much time."

Wilson is not at all optimistic. "We are going to have an increasing number of transfer students from the junior colleges," he said. "Unless the junior colleges do the job, we will have to

"And with the shortage of good English instructors we have in this country, I don't believe the junior colleges can do

Mississippi Negro Band to Participate In Parade of Roses

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippians have contributed $13,000 to send the 110-piece band from all-Negro Mississippi Valley State College to the New Year's Day Parade of Roses in Pasadena, Calif.

"We're $2,000 shy but expect to reach our goal of $15,000 within the next two or three days," said former Gov. Hugh White, who is spearheading the fund-raising campaign.

"How can anyone say Mississippi does not take care of its citizens, white and black?" White asked. "It is a tribute to the institution."

Poor Preparation

Teaching of English Has Host of Critics

CLEVELAND (AP) — Critics by the score charge that the teaching of English in the schools is disgracefully bad. The National Council of Teachers of English is in emphatic agreement.

The outside critics present their case in generalities. The council documents its indictment with up-to-date facts and figures.

"We're not proud of the situation," says Dr. Albert R. Kitzhaber, immediate past-president of the council. "We know their college studies to that subtle appalling state of English instruction in this country better than anyone else."

"The difference is, we're trying to do something about it."

Major Problem

Kitzhaber, a professor of English at the University of Oregon, said the major problem is the poor preparation of teachers at all levels — in grade school, high school and college.

"There are many other factors, of course," Kitzhaber said last week during the council's annual convention here.

"English teachers have too heavy a work load — some of them are supposed to teach 200 students a day. They haven't the time to give students the individual instruction they need."

"The composition textbooks available in the high schools and junior highs are the worst in the schools."

"Parents tend to assume that every youngster is capable of a high level of achievement in composition — an assumption not made in any other subject."

"But the one main, overriding cause of poor English instruction is the poor preparation of teachers."

Ultimate Blame

The high schools blame the grade schools and junior highs, and the colleges blame the high schools.

But the ultimate blame, it would appear, rests on the college.

"The colleges just haven't done the job of preparing teachers to teach writing," Kitzhaber said.

"They assume that the ability to teach writing comes naturally, or that it isn't worth teaching, or that it comes from teaching literature."

Kitzhaber pointed to these statistics, compiled and published by the council earlier this year: "Only 50 per cent of the high school English teachers majored in English in college.

—Of those English majors, only 99 per cent were expected to complete work in composition beyond that included in the standard freshman English course.

—Although instruction in English and the language arts makes up 40 to 50 per cent of all figures elementary school education, elementary school teachers devoted less than 8 per cent of their college studies to that subject.

Organized to Study

—About half the elementary teachers did not complete any organized study of language development, any review of the structure and nature of the English sentence, any methods of teaching writing and language to children.

Council documents also report the case of the English teacher in Pennsylvania who had 18 college hours of English—all 18 of them 'D's'.

"Two obvious statements can be made concerning the state of teaching English in elementary and secondary schools," the council reported. "A great deal of time is being spent on the matter, particularly in teaching grammar, and most of the time is wasted."

New Textbooks

But Kitzhaber sees better things ahead. "New textbook material is being worked out at 15 curriculum centers at universities across the nation, under the sponsorship of the U.S. Office of Education."

The opening of English institutes under the revised National Defense Education Act can make a noticeable improvement in the preparation of teachers.

"There is national concern about the improvement of teaching English. We should see some good effects."

Kitzhaber said teacher-preparation institutions should upgrade their programs for future English teachers.

"They should write, but they also should study the theory of writing," he said.

"At least a freshman level course in logic would be advantageous."

"A serious study of English ought to be required — call it linguistics, grammar, or whatever. Even if a teacher has had a college course in grammar, there is no assurance it has been a good one."

Bernie Heselton Resigns As Lawrence Grid Coach

Awards Go To Kussow, Koskelin

Halfback Bob Schoenwetter and tackle Jack Robertson have been named co-captains of the 1965 Lawrence University football team.

Their selection was announced Wednesday night at the Viking fall sports awards dinner in Colman Hall.

Kim Dammers and Henry Kaiser were named captains of the Vike cross country team.

The honorary co-captains of the Vike freshman football team are Gary Hietpas and Cliff Goerke. The honorary frosh harrier captain is Wayne Bass. Gary Kussow, outgoing football captain, was awarded the "most valuable lineman" trophy. Dennis Koskelin was named "the most valuable back" of 1964.

Football Coach Bernie Heselton termed Kussow "a great leader and definitely our best player of the season." Kussow won all-conference honors.

Koskelin was "our bell-ringer and workhorse," according to Heselton. "In the last two years, he turned out to be a great player."

Schoenwetter, originally counted on to be a specialist, became almost a 60-minute player, according to the coach. "He played a lot of good games, and gave 100 per cent plus in each one."

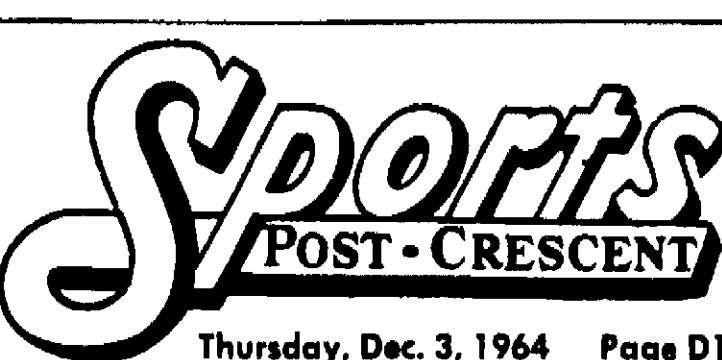

Heselton termed Robertson "the best tackle we have." He pointed out that the Menashaan has been hampered by injuries, but "can be one of the best in the conference."

In summing up the season, which saw the Vikes post a 2-6 record, Heselton said, "We thought we'd be good — not great but good — if we stayed healthy. We took a physical beating but never quit in any game." He pointed out that seven regulars were hurt after just one game had been played, and this injury trend continued throughout the season.

Seniors earning letters were Kussow, Koskelin, Don Gurney, Bill Hobbins, Tim Knabe, Rick Rapoport and Corry Azzi.

Sophs who won letters are Rich Agness, Bill Benowitz, Bob Bletzinger, Gerry Gatzke and Doug Giffin.

Eau Claire State Quarterback Jim Van Gorden Agrees to Terms

GREEN BAY (AP) — The Green Bay Packers lost a top draft choice, Baylor end Larry Elkins, to the Houston Oilers of the rival American Football League Wednesday but did sign one of the state's best prospects, Eau Claire quarterback Jim Van Gorden.

Elkins was picked by the Packers as they made their second choice on the first round of the National Football League draft last Saturday. He also was the first round choice of the Oilers.

The 6-foot-1, 187-pound Elkins was signed at Waco, Tex., by Carroll Martin, the Oilers' general manager.

With Elkins under contract, the Oilers have reunited the top passing and receiving combination of the 1963 collegiate season. Don Trull, who set a list of passing records at Baylor last year, is playing his rookie pro season with the Oilers.

Elkins said, "I feel mighty good about getting a chance to play with Trull again." Reports said he got a $35,000 bonus and signed a three-year contract paying $30,000 a year.

Elkins set a record with 102 catches for his junior and senior years and holds six Southwestern Conference records, including 144 receptions for 2,086 yards in three seasons.

The 23-year-old Van Gorden, who directed Eau Claire to two straight State University Conference titles, said at Eau Claire Wednesday night that he had signed with the Packers as a free agent during a Tuesday meeting with Green Bay business manager Verne Lewellen.

Van Gorden said he had been scheduled to meet Wednesday with a representative of the San Francisco 49ers.

The Packers, Van Gorden said, will try him at quarterback.

Set 18 Records

Van Gorden set 18 Eau Claire State records, including every total offense and passing record kept by the school. He directed Eau Claire to its first undefeated season in 43 years in 1963. The Bluegolds had a 7-2 record this season.

Van Gorden also is the total offense leader and second over Manawa and Winnebago among passers in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. His total offense figure is 2,307 yards for an average of 256.3 yards a game.

Steps Down After 27 Vike Seasons

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The most notable football era in Lawrence University (College) history has ended.

Bernie Heselton, molder of six championship teams, three runners-up and numerous contenders, has resigned as head football coach of the Vikings.

The 63-year-old Heselton revealed his decision in a dramatic climax to his talk at the Lawrence fall sports awards banquet Wednesday night.

Heselton, the dean of Midwest Conference coaches, has directed Vike football fortunes for 27 years. Including his 13 years as a high school mentor, Heselton spent 40 years in the coaching profession. He will remain as Lawrence athletic director.

Curtis Tarr, Lawrence president, announced that the search for a successor would start immediately but said no time-table had been set up for announcing a decision.

Bernie Heselton

For Two Years

Heselton, who said he had been mulling the decision to retire for two years, had given no indication that he was taking this step until he declared, near the end of his banquet remarks, "This is the last time I can address you guys as my team."

He said, "I love football, and I love you, but everything must come to an end."

Although "no one knows how badly I wanted to play in the new stadium," Heselton went on to say that he thought this was the logical time to step out. This will give a new coach a chance to work with a group of "good juniors, good sophomores and great frosh," and to start his career in the new Lawrence Bowl.

"I've preached a lot that you, as an individual, are secondary and that the team is most important."

A full slate of games is on tap in the Fox Valley Catholic Conference Friday night, including key clashes between several of the top rated clubs.

A pair of unbeaten, Oshkosh Lourdes and Abbot Pennings, meet at DePere and Appleton. Xavier eyes its third straight loop win at the expense of Premontre of Green Bay.

A pair of league rivals, St. Mary Menasha and St. John will tangle at Little Chute. The other league tilt has Fond du Lac St. Mary Springs at Marinette Central.

Xavier, which has cruised by Marinette and St. Mary Menasha with comparative ease, is expected to post win No. 3 in the league and No. 7 of the season against the Cadets of Premontre.

Working Combination

Coach Gary Herold has been having trouble finding a working combination at Premontre, and the Cadets fell before a Green Bay East onslaught Monday night to the tune of 100-36 score. Herold started with two sophomores, two juniors and a senior and then substituted a full unit of four sophomores and one junior but failed to come up with an offensive punch.

Xavier's latest outing resulted in a 69-36 win over St. Mary's. The Hawks are averaging 76 points per game in the two conference tilts while foes have managed a total of 85 markers, or just over 42 per game.

The Lourdes-Pennings clash club stepped in and killed the pit a pair of teams against each other that are rated the best bets in the league to give Xavier a battle for conference honors.

Both clubs have a wealth of returnees from last season and both opened with victories last week. Lourdes had to stave off a last-ditch rally to get by Springs, 60-56, Saturday night while Pennings had a somewhat

Two Oshkosh Gridders on All-State Unit

A news service has announced the All-Wisconsin public high school football team with Fox River Valley Conference champion Oshkosh the only school to place two players on the first unit.

Oshkosh gridders named to the team were fullback Roger Leinhardt and guard Pat Schrage. Green Bay East's Pat Harrington was named to an end spot opposite Rhinelander's Ted Reimer.

Steve Wilmet, West De Pere, was awarded the quarterback spot with Superior Central's Bob Olson and Ladysmith's Bill Mestelle rounding out the backfield.

Tackles named were Steve Cline, La Crosse Central and Ed Hoffman, Antigo. Wally Schoenow, Homestead, at center and guard Jeff Tobolski, Milwaukee Tech, completed the 11-man unit.

Viking Cagers Open Conference Campaign Here This Weekend

St. Olaf, Carlton Will Provide The Opposition

BY TERRY GALVIN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Coach Clyde Rusk's Lawrence University varsity basketball contingent receives its 1964-5 baptism of Midwest Conference action in rapid succession on its home court Friday and Saturday.

The Vikings will play host to an experienced St. Olaf squad Friday night (7:30) and will follow up with a 1:30 p.m. Saturday date with Carleton.

Rusk, fairly optimistic despite an opening game non-conference loss to Stevens Point, has indicated that he will string along with the same starting lineup that opened the season Tuesday night.

Tom Steinmetz, who led the Vikings with 24 points in the 77-65 loss, Mike O'Fallon (6-4) and Earl Hoover (6-4) will be in the front line. Rick Kroos and Dick Schultz, a pair of 5-11 guards, round out the starting five. Hoover is the only senior.

The Vikings maintained an 8-point lead throughout much of the opening contest against the Pointers but the visitors took command with less than eight minutes remaining for the victory.

An added boost to the Viking bench will be the return of Gordon Bond, a 6-2 letterman guard. Bond was held out of the opener because of a knee injury. Others expected to see action for the Vikings in the weekend doubleheader are Appleton's 6-8 Jim Swanson, Bill Prange, Phil Strong, Bruce Elliot and Bill Benowitz.

St. Olaf also opened the season Tuesday night. The Olies dropped an 82-78 verdict to Macalester.

The return of 6-6 pivot man Andy Roe, out last season with a shoulder injury, is expected to bolster an already experienced St. Olaf squad.

Other veterans include 6-4 Turn to Page 5, Col. 2

Appleton High School's swash-buckling basketball Terrors, who have been impressive in scoring three straight wins, Friday night return to Fox River Valley Conference warfare and the task of defending their championship.

The Terrors, who won their FRVC opener (against Green Bay East) two weeks ago and a pair of non-league decisions (over Neenah and Kimberly) since then travel to Sheboygan to meet North's Raiders, who have dropped their only league game and their only non-loop victory in two campaigns.

AHS, which has won its first three games for the first time in the 12-year regime of Coach Dick Emanuel, will be seeking its seventh successive FRVC victory in two campaigns.

Will Be Favored

The Terrors, who flashed mid-season form in their 21-point win over Kimberly last Saturday, will be favored heavily over

Minor Leagues Approve Proposed Draft

BY CHARLES MAHER

HOUSTON (AP) — Outfielder Frank Howard of the Los Angeles Dodgers was as good as traded to Houston when the principal owner of the Texas Rangers, the Associated Press club stepped in and killed the deal.

The Associated Press club stepped in and killed the deal, the Associated Press club stepped in and killed the deal.

Houston General Manager Paul Richards and Dodger General Manager Buzie Bavasi reached agreement on a trade that would have brought Howard to Houston for third baseman Bob Aspromonte and pitcher Ken Johnson, the AP was reliably informed.

But the informant said Bob Smith, chairman of the board of directors of the Houston club, vetoed the trade because he didn't want to let Aspromonte go.

The minor leagues approved a no-fault-type draft of high school and college players at Wednesday's session of the winter baseball meetings. But trade rumors were still the principal conversation pieces.

It appeared there was still a fair chance the Los Angeles Angels would trade pitcher Bob Belinsky to the Philadelphia Phillies. But no one seemed to know which Philadelphia player or players might be involved.

The Angels could use a first baseman, a third baseman, or both.

Houston, Yankees

There was also a rumor that Houston and the New York Yankees might have a deal in the works. The players mentioned were Johnson and catcher Jerry Grole of Houston and catcher John Blanchard and pitcher Stan Williams of the Yankees. One source said Houston wanted an additional player.

Minnesota and Kansas City discussed a six-player deal in Jerry Arrigo, Jim Roland and vowing outfielder Jimmie Hall. Stigman. The Indians would third baseman Rich Rollins and then send the left-hander to De-pitcher Dick Stigman of the trait for outfielder George Twins and third baseman Ed Thomas.

Charles, pitcher Wes Stock and The proposed draft of players with no professional experience was approved unanimously by the minor leagues and was to be considered today in separate meetings of the American and National leagues. It was expected to win approval.

Under the plan, there would be three drafts each year. The first two, in January and June, would involve college players and high school graduates not planning to attend college. The third would probably be held in August and would involve only American Legion and sandlot players.

Each major league club would be permitted to pick one player at each draft. Selections would be made in inverse order of the clubs' standings.

Should a player refuse to sign with the club that drafted him, he would become subject to selection again at a special draft play in a big city "so Denver gave its rights to him to the targets in the multi-million dollar New York Jets. I can't say any- lar pro football war, will sign thing right now about our deal with the Chicago Bears today with New York."

Butkus Says He'll Sign With Chicago

Illinois Linebacker Hasn't Been Contacted by New York Jets

BY MIKE RATHET

Butkus disclaimed any knowledge of the transaction. "I really don't know anything about that," he said. "I have won the struggle for Butkus' Jets."

While the National League not talked with anyone from the services, the American League Butkus was a first round se- pulled even in signing competi- tion of the Bears while the tive first round draft choices Broncos, who had traded away when the Houston Oilers signed their No. 1 pick in the AFL, the league's No. 1 selection—draft, made him their first pick Baylor pass-catching whiz Lar- ry Elkins.

Butkus' decision to join the draft choice for the fifth time in Bears—a major score for the six years, whipped the NFL's National League in the battle Green Bay Packers for Elkins' for big names—came almost services while reuniting last simultaneously Wednesday with year's sensational Don Trull to the revelation that Denver had Elkins' services while reuniting traded its rights to the standout last year's sensational Don Illinois linebacker. had been drafted by the Bears. Chicago signed Kansas halfback Gale Sayers, also picked by Kansas City, while Detroit signed Indiana fullback Tom Nowatzke, a Jet pick in the AFL.

Alabama quarterback Joe Namath also was picked on the first round in each draft, but will play in the Orange Bowl before signing. He's up for grabs between the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals and the Jets.

In over-all first round selections, the NFL has signed five of its 14 and has lost two to the American League. The AFL has signed four of its eight and lost three to the National League.

Cleveland of the NFL split even on signing two of its second-round picks Wednesday, getting Purdue tackle Jim Garcia in a battle with Denver but lost Georgia Tech defensive back Gary Russell to the Bron- cos.

Rita Mikkelsen Hits 593 Set

Tops Lucky Loop; Sally Schommer Posts 232 Game

Rita Mikkelsen unleashed a 593 series, including singles of 221 and 194, to highlight action in the Lucky League at Sabre Lanes.

Packers' Secondary to Get Big Test Saturday

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY—You've heard of ball control, of course.

It makes you think of big, strong backs bulldozing down the field three, four yards at a crack—with a pass thrown in for honesty.

The Bears, however, are con- trolling the ball by the forward pass... which is a rarity and also a problem for the Packers who take on the Bears in the national television spectacle in Chicago Saturday afternoon.

The Bears have thrown 438 passes in 12 games thus far and they have made 225 first downs by passing—both top fig- ures in the league. They also have the most completions—254, and their two ace receivers, Johnny Morris and Mike Ditka, rank one-two in the league. Mor- ris snared a record 90 and Ditka 70.

Burden on Secondary This all points to the Packer pass defense and Willie Wood, the Pack's all-pro safetyman, agrees that the Bears' aerial game puts a burden on the en- tire secondary.

"They have what you might call a nuisance pass game. They throw that short stuff—five to 10 yards, and possess the ball that way. They've gotten away from throwing the big bomb."

Wood noted that the Bears "have been running more in the last few games than they used to. They can do it. You might recall our game in Chicago last year when they threw only 13 or 14 times."

The Bears whipped Green Bay

| Denmark | 1 | 0 |
| Freedom | 1 | 0 |
| Hilbert | 1 | 0 |
| Hortonville | 1 | 0 |
| Reedsville | 1 | 0 |
| Bear Creek | 0 | 1 |
| Omro | 0 | 1 |
| Shiocton | 0 | 1 |
| Winneconne | 0 | 1 |
| Wrightstown | 0 | 1 |

Hilbert and Freedom, top-ranked contenders, square off on the latter's court Friday night in the only game of the 5-game Little Nine Conference agenda which pits winners of opening-round contests.

Hilbert posted a convincing, 63-46 victory over a pre-season favorite, Winneconne. Freedom encountered little difficulty in outdistancing Bear Creek, 82-55.

Omro travels to Winneconne in a battle of first-round losers. Other games send Denmark to Wrightstown, Bear Creek to Reedsville and Shiocton to Hortonville.

Glen Bowers, who scored 34 points in the opener, spearheads the Irish attack. Andy Schaeffer, the tallest player in the Little Nine at 6-6, anchors the Hilbert offensive. Bowers was the runnerup to Reedsville's Gene Klann in the 1963-64 individual scoring race.

Winneconne, hampered by Jim Nickel sidelined by a foot-ball injury, was the choice of rival coaches to win the Little Nine title. The Wolves of Coach Bob Morgan eye the victory column against Omro in a traditional rivalry between the neighboring communities.

Other individual performances that stood out in conference openers were Jim Schleis' 27 points and Bruce Meyer's 20 in Denmark's win over Shiocton. Jerry Hillman's 19 for Reedsville. Lee Keller's 24 for Hortonville and Mike Engstrom's 19 for Omro.

Lubinski Fires 628 Series in Black Creek

Allen Lubinski slammed a 242 game and a 628 series to pace the Black Creek Major Bowling League at R & R Lanes.

Other honor scorers were Bud Knaack, 614; Lee Van Vuren 584; Bob Rohloff, 583; Bob Nettekoven, 597; Gene Penn, 564; and Gene Barth and Bob Krohlow, 562 563s.

Bob Wilson led the American League at 12 Corners with a 588 set. Larry Techlin checked in with a 551.

Vic Kersten topped a pair of New London Leagues at the Golden Hour Lanes. He hit a 610 in the Men's All-Star loop and a 572 in the Good Fellowship circuit. Junior Burns was runner up in the latter league, with a 567.

Other Men's All-Star high scores: George Huntley, 564; Tom Sartor, 559; Gordon Bellile, 555; and Clarence Hockers, 552.

Dale, Berggren's Clash in Feature Of 'Y' Men's Loop

First-night winners Dale Realty and Berggren's Sport Shop clash Monday night in the feature game of the Appleton YMCA Men's Basketball League.

Bob Morgan scored 18 points as Berggren's beat Leath's, 66-48, in its opener. Dale stopped Retson's, 63-38, with Dan Wachtendonk's 17 points leading the way. Dave Nymoen scored 20 points for Retson's.

Appleton Trophy, which meets Leath's Monday, downed Zussman's Grocery, 77-67, as Hank and Tom Peerenboom led the way with 22 and 19 points, respectively. Dennis Valentine led Zussman's with 17.

Zussman's meets Retson's in Monday's final game.

Les Krueger Hits 596 Pin Triple

Les Krueger rolled a 234 singleton and a 596 series to lead the Fish Couples Bowling League at Hahn's Lanes.

Other honor scores were Milt Drier, 575 and "Heinie" Staedt and Alan Laux, 562.

Chet Steiner's 582 series and Babe Boreson's 194 and 517 shared the honors in the Tree Couples circuit at Sabre Lanes. Hanford (Ham) Baldock posted a 554.

Palmer Fires Record 65

Warms Up for Canada Cup Test in Hawaii

KAANAPALI, MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — It was the defending champion United States, with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, against the world to try to take the start of the pre-season Canada Cup golf matches.

Two-man teams representing 12 nations, plus twosomes from Hawaii and Puerto Rico, were set to tee off over the lush green fairways of the Royal Kaaanapali Golf Course, one that measures 2,255 yards, with par 36-36-72.

There will be 18 holes each day, concluding Sunday.

The Canada Cup, put into play first in 1953 as an emblem of international good will through the medium of golf, is the big prize. It is determined by the total scores of the two players.

Palmer and Nicklaus won the Canada Cup last year in Paris, and while Palmer has yet to capture the International Trophy, he sounded a warning Wednesday.

Famed Army
Arnie, with an abbreviated version of his famed army at his heels, broke the course record in the pro-amateur prelude with a seven-under-par 31-54-65.

Best ball low score honors, 62, went to Palmer and his amateur partner, Howard Clark of New York, president of the International Golf Association.

Nicklaus had an individual 72. Runners-up to Palmer were Bruce Devlin, Australia, 69, and at 70, Ted Makalena of Hawaii and Cheff Said of Egypt.

Brayton flipped in a 40-foot, one-hand push shot with just four seconds left on the clock to give the Terps a 72-71 victory over Penn State. It was the highlight of Wednesday night's action on collegiate hardwoods.

Maryland led by 70-67 with 29 seconds left, but Carver Clinton's basket and two free throws by Ray Saunders put the Nittany Lions ahead with 11 seconds to go. Then came Brayton's game-winning one-hander from near midcourt.

Bradley capped Princeton's Ivy League champs to an 83-74 triumph over Lafayette with 29 points. He got 10 of them in the last five minutes after the Leopards rallied to within one point at 68-67.

Scores 20 Points
Bing tossed in 20 points and handed out 11 assists in leading the seventh-ranked Syracuse team to an easy 127-67 triumph over American U.

Kansas State, No. 8, the only other team in the pre-season Associated Press Top Ten to play, whipped Creighton 96-82 behind Jeff Simons' 22 points.

Tennessee, rated a title threat in the Southeastern Conference, and Texas Tech, favored to win the Southwest Conference, impressed in their openers. The Volunteers crushed Richmond 97-66 as Red Robbins scored 18 points. The Red Raiders walked off with a 114-70 behind Norman Reuther's 20 points.

Bob Trupin's 32 points led Yale to a 77-71 victory over Colgate and Ohio State routed South Dakota 86-54 on a 50 per cent shooting average.

In other games Dayton walked off Niagara 95-64, Florida downed Virginia Military 68-59, St. Bonaventure took Quincy 78-64, LaSalle downed Albright 81-57 and Arizona State humbled St. Joseph's, N.M., 94-79.

Braves Seek to Reduce Board Of Directors

Seven Wisconsin Members of 21-Man Unit on Way Out

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Braves were active on many fronts Wednesday, agreeing to pay a $250,000 indemnity for the Atlanta territory, taking over ownership of a farm club and proposing to reduce the board of directors by seven members — just the number of Wisconsin residents on the board.

A letter to shareholders announced that the annual stockholders meeting will be held Dec. 11 in Chicago, with one piece of business a plan to trim the board of directors from 21 to 14 members.

"It looks like the cards are stacked," said Duane Bowman, a Madison dairy company official who was one of seven Wisconsin men added to the board of directors in 1962 to expand "local ownership" of the Braves.

Bowman said he could see no reason for reducing the size of the board "except to get rid of us."

Six of the Wisconsin directors voted against the Braves plan to move to Atlanta for the 1965 season. The seventh, General Manager and Coach Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, did not attend the meeting. After a court action by Milwaukee County halted an immediate shift, the National League told the Braves to play in Milwaukee in 1965 and move to Atlanta for the 1966 season.

The announcement of the stockholders meeting was made in a letter signed by corporation secretary Ralph Delforge. Braves officials were in Houston for the baseball meetings and could not be reached for comment.

It was in Houston that Tommy Richardson, president of the International League, announced the indemnity agreement. Earlier in the week the Braves purchased the Atlanta club in the International League from Bill McKechnie Jr. for $285,000.

The indemnity will be divided into shares of $35,714 for the other seven members of the league. The Braves will operate the Atlanta club in the International League next year. But in 1966 it will be up to the Triple A league to find a new location for the franchise.

Northern League Limited to First, Second-Year Men

HOUSTON (AP) — The Class A Northern League is expected to operate next season under a novel arrangement, using only first and second-year players.

The plan was approved unanimously Wednesday by major league general managers and team directors. Final action will be taken by Northern League directors at a meeting next week.

To accommodate players who would be signed at graduation under the proposed unrestricted draft, the league would open its season after June 1 and play a 70-game schedule.

The Baltimore Orioles, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds, Houston Astros, New York Mets and Minnesota Twins have promised to work with the league.

State Deer Kill Totals 89,236 in '64

MADISON (AP) — Hunters bagged 89,236 deer during Wisconsin's nine-day shooting season, the State Conservation Department said Wednesday.

The 1963 bag, in an almost identical season, was 65,020. The figures were announced by J. R. Smith, chief of the game division, who said, "I never saw a season with fewer complaints." But he added, "We still have too many deer to survive a good old-fashioned winter."

The herd had been estimated at 500,000 animals.

A total of 24,571 deer was registered for the northwest area, compared with 15,823 last year. In the west central area, the registration was 24,478 in contrast to 22,988 a year ago.

There were 18,811 deer shot in the northeast area, compared with 13,419 in 1963. The kill in the east central area was 11,654 against 8,975 a year ago.

In the southern area, where many counties were closed after a three-day any deer hunt, the bag was 5,472, up from 4,015 a year earlier.

St. Bernadette Scores Fifth Straight Win

Tom and Phil Grishaber paced St. Bernadette to its fifth triumph in as many games, a 61-51 decision over previously unbeaten St. Paul, in the Men's Church Municipal Basketball League.

Tom coined 23 points and Phil added 20. Ken Hinz and Claude Radtke led St. Paul with 15 and 14.

St. Mary moved into third place with an 82-59 victory over St. James. Jim Rudolf led the victors with 25 markers. Chuck Kuntz and Jim Sutherland chipped in with 19 and 18 for St. Mary. Ron Finger's 24 points led St. James.

Zion Lutheran (2-3) recorded a 68-57 verdict over winless First English. Sherwin Furrbringer led Zion with 23 markers. Harry Eskew paced the losers with 20.

Torre Named Braves' Most Valuable Player

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Catcher and first baseman Joe Torre was named the Milwaukee Braves most valuable player of 1964 by Milwaukee baseball writers Wednesday.

The 24-year-old Torre hit .321 with 109 runs batted in and 20 homers. In catching 96 games last season, he led National League receivers in fielding with a .95 average on just three errors in 564 chances. He fielded 993 while playing first base in 70 games.

He will be honored at the writers' 12th annual Diamond Dinner Jan. 24. He will receive the Manning Vaughan award, named for a late Milwaukee Journal Sports Writer.

Packers First On Defense

Colts Lead in Ball Control and Total Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore has the figures to back up its 11-game winning streak and its Western Conference title in the National Football League.

The Colts lead the league in total offense with 4,059 yards for 12 games and rank fourth in total defense, allowing 3,446 yards to the enemy.

Perhaps of even more importance to their winning effort is the all-important ball control figures. The Colts have lost the ball on fumbles only five times and have had their passes intercepted only six times. On defense they have recovered 16 position fumbles and intercepted 21 passes. This gives them a 37-11 edge or a plus of 26.

On the same basis, here is the way all the clubs in the league rate on ball control:

Baltimore plus 26, Washington plus 19, Green Bay plus 16, Cleveland plus 10, Minnesota plus four, Chicago plus one; St. Louis minus two, Detroit minus three, Philadelphia minus nine, Los Angeles minus nine, Dallas minus 10, Pittsburgh minus 10, New York minus 12, San Francisco minus 21.

Houston Baseball Club Changes Name to Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston baseball club officially changed its team nickname from Colt 45s to Astros Tuesday.

The announcement was made by Judge Roy Hofheinz, club president, who said the new name was given because Houston is the nation's space capital and added:

"We hope our new domed stadium will make Houston the sports capital."

AAU Advises U. S. Athletes Not to Let Down

Avoid Customary Trend After Olympic Games

HOUSTON (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union feels the United States shouldn't follow its old habit of letting down in international competition after the Olympic Games but should work even harder, an AAU spokesman says.

Already much of the business at the annual AAU meeting here has been directed toward that goal. For one thing, the AAU has agreed on a 1965 triangular track meet between Poland, West Germany and the United States.

Don Hull, AAU executive director, said following a meeting of the foreign relations committee Tuesday that the plan is for 1965 to be "the largest and best ever for international competition the year after the Olympic Games."

The United States, he said, has a habit of letting down after the Games and then scrambling back the year before the next Olympics.

"This doesn't lend to keeping the United States on top," he added.

Hull said the AAU tentatively plans to match the men's and women's national champions and runners-up from Poland, West Germany and the United States in a July 10-11 meet in Los Angeles. It will be a tune-up for the dual meet between the United States and Russia in Moscow later that month.

England was invited, but couldn't work it into its schedule, Hull said.

Long-range AAU plans are to have a big international meet in this country each year, Hull said. One of course, will be the annual Russian-United States event that alternates between countries.

In the years the Russians are hosts, meet similar to the one planned for Los Angeles will be held, he said.

Meanwhile, the squabble over control of open amateur athletics in the United States between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the AAU was at a standstill Thursday.

Comeback After Slow Start

Redskins' Jurgensen Named Player of Week

BY W. B. RAGSDALE, JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Washington stumbled and fumbled to four defeats to open the National Football League season, many Redskins fans decided Coach Bill McPeak had been swindled when he swapped quarterback with Philadelphia. Sonny Jurgensen couldn't find his receivers. And when he did, they often dropped the ball. He didn't connect for a touchdown until the third game, only twice in the first four.

Today, there has been a surprising turnaround. McPeak now is regarded as a hero for obtaining the 30-year-old former Duke University quarterback, named Associated Press Player of the Week Wednesday.

He won the honor for his performance Sunday when he threw four touchdown passes and completed 24 of 43 for 319 yards in a 38-21 victory over New York.

He moved into a tie with Green Bay's Bart Starr for the lead among NFL passers.

He even threatens to demolish a record set by a Redskin immortal, Sammy Baugh. With 24 touchdown passes—highest total in the NFL—he has two games left to match or surpass Baugh's single season mark of 25 set in 1947.

However, he still has a way to go to match the NFL record of 36, set by Y. A. Tittle of New York in 1963, or his own best mark of 32 with Philadelphia in 1961.

Asked about Jurgensen's slow start, McPeak pointed out that he missed five weeks of pre-season practice with a knee injury and saw extensive action only in the final exhibition game. Although emphasizing that his is a "first year team," Marquette Player — Coach Leonard (Oakie) Brumm says the Iron Rangers are faster than Waterloo's defending champion Black Hawks, who are charged for their speed.

Brumm knows whereof he speaks, it should be added, since he drove Waterloo to the USHL title last season as the Black Hawks' player-coach. Marquette, which lost a 6-2 decision to Rochester, followed by St. Paul Steers Nov. 22 and thus trails the second place Bobcats (2-1) by a half game.

All reserved seats tickets have been sold for the Green Bay Bobcats' game against Russia's defending Olympic hockey champions at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena here Saturday night, Dec. 19. Bobcat General Manager John Biolo announced.

As a result, the Arena's 2,000 general admission seats, normally not offered until the night of a game, are being placed on sale immediately on pick up games for its best record since 1956.

COLLEGE WOMEN MAKE COLD WIVES! TRUE OR FALSE?

False. Most studies find that sort to temper tantrums. Still the more education a woman has had, the better partner she is in marriage. One study of the alumnae of an Eastern women's college found that 99 per cent of the married women graduates found sex satisfying as a meaningful factor in their lives. Fully 85 per cent reported that "sex gets better with the years." Conclusions are that college women generally have other interests, but are by no means frigid wives.

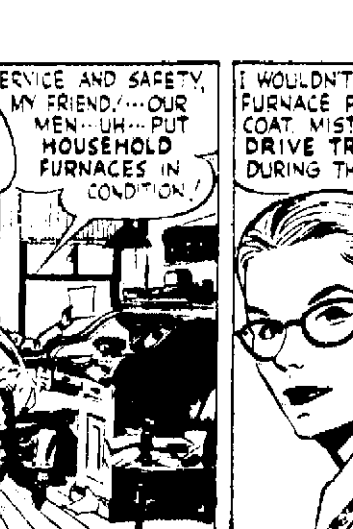

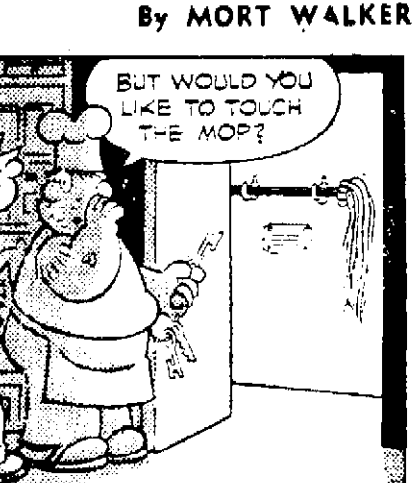

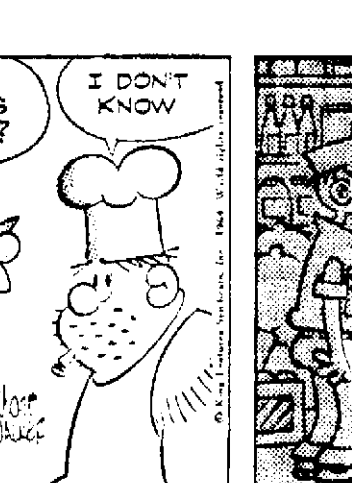

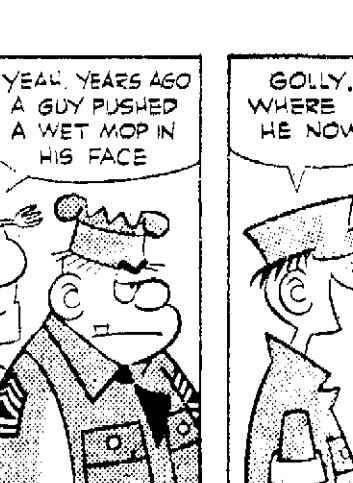

Will frustrating a child usually cause temper tantrums?

Everybody's Happy in This Number Juggling

Each Network Has Successful Ratings, Depending on What Figures Are Used

BY JINGO

What's in a number? Is a number by any other name still a number? It would seem so, but not when it comes to TV ratings. Then numbers speak eloquently for whoever does the figuring. Perhaps the old saw, "Figures don't lie, but liars can figure," is a bit strong; but the essence is still there.

When the current TV season opened and the ratings started pouring out there was a wave of excitement; the king had been dethroned—long live the new king.

However, the bald figures that caused this wave were quickly swept aside with the not too unreasonable consideration that there was a political campaign going on and the networks that scooped up the campaign money for spots and extended plugs suffered greatly in the pell mell rush for audiences. Wait, the saying was, wait until we get back on even keel.

Well, we're back and the new ratings are out. And what do they say? It all depends on to whom you're talking.

A brief backward look will help. Last season CBS had it all its own way. All but one of the top 10 shows were CBS. NBC held down a fairly nice second berth and ABC was plugging along in third.

The first Arbitron ratings since the election show that CBS still has most of the popular shows, but both NBC and ABC have made inroads. One would expect that this would make some happy and some sad. But that's not the case—they're all happy.

Counting up the number of the popular shows, CBS has more than a third of the number and still is well ahead of either of the other two networks by a 3 to 1 margin in the first 20.

Using this technique, ABC continues to be delirious. From a had third place, ABC is sitting in second spot well ahead of NBC on the total number in the top 50 and it also can now boast of two shows in the top 10 where there were none last year.

Not to be daunted, NBC finds a great deal of happiness in the ratings as well. It may have slipped in the number of popular shows, but NBC still is bragging. Don't count the number of shows, it says, let's count the number of minutes and on this score NBC is king!

NBC Count

This is how NBC works it. CBS has six of the top 10 most popular shows and NBC and ABC have two each. BUT! The two NBC shows are the perennial king "Bonanza" with 60 minutes and "Vergil" with 90 minutes, giving NBC 150 minutes in the top 10. ABC's winners are "Bewitched" at 30 minutes and Thursday's "Peyton Place" at 30 minutes; giving ABC no more than one of the NBC's winners. The six CBS winners are Andy Griffith (30), Ed Sullivan (60), Red Skelton (60), Gomer Pyle (30), Dick Van Dyke (30) and Lucy (30)—a mere 90 minutes more than NBC.

The NBC's two movie shows, Saturday and Wednesday, are the winners in the next 10; giving it a big 240 minutes or a total of 390 in the top 20. CBS's six more winners equal only 300 minutes or 540 in the top 20 and ABC's two next winners equal a mere 90 minutes.

NBC really pulls ahead when considering the top 25 as the net takes three of the next five—all hour shows—while CBS

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 2) — "The Siege," on The Defenders, is a taut, absorbing show which benefits from fine performances from Robert Redford and E. G. Marshall. Redford is an escaped convict who comes to Marshall's office and announces he is going to kill Marshall for railroad-ing him to prison seven years earlier.

8-7-30 (Channel 11) — There's more slapstick humor than usual on The Donna Reed Show, in a funny outing. A taxi driver brings an expectant mother to the Stone household where she immediately gives birth to quads.

7-8 (Channel 2) — Perry Mason has a less complicated, i.e. good, mystery in "The Case of the Latent Lover." Lloyd Bochner is one of those nice businessmen who suddenly goes berserk and begins having delusions. One is that Jason Evers, a probation officer, is having an affair with Bochner's wife, who suddenly wants a divorce.

7-30-8 (Channel 11) — Don Grady has co-authored a sensitive, funny script for My Three Sons, in which Grady, as Robbie, matures a bit too rapidly and ABC split the remainder with 30 minutes offerings. The number game—it's wonderful!

It begins when Mike (Tim Con-sidine), leaving town for a week-end, asks Robbie to escort Sally (Meredith MacRae) on a shopping tour and to a progressive jazz concert.

7-30-8-30 (Channel 4-5)—Two cases of "Kalima ungonjwa," a rare African hill sickness, occupy Dr. Kildare, in a show that builds suspense. There is enough serum in this country for one victim.

8-8-30 (Channel 11) — A mix-up about who is pregnant results in great fun for viewers on Bewitched. Mrs. Tate, the wife of Dick York's boss, discovers she is to have a baby after years of childless marriage. She confides in Elizabeth Montgomery, and off they go to an obstetrician.

8-30-9 (Channel 2) — Vince Lombardi Show.

8-30-9 (Channel 11) — Poor Dr. Rossi and poor Betty. The hospital board at Peyton Place holds him responsible for Catherine's death and suspends his privileges. And Betty is ordered out of the Harrington home and told to divorce Rod.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — High class jewel thieves give the Kraft Suspense Theater a good mystery - suspense show. Barry Nelson, a master at his trade, appears to have committed a major heist. But his alibi seems pretty air-tight. (Color)

Wisconsin GOP Members Divided On Fate of Burch

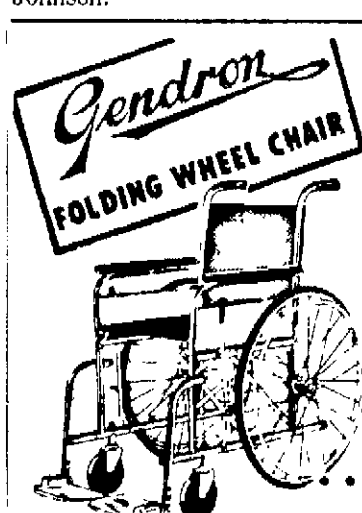

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin members of the Republican National Committee have divided on Sen. Barry Goldwater's statement that the committee didn't have the votes to oust Dean Burch as national party chairman.

Goldwater said in Washington that Burch's opponents on the committee "are not going to throw him out because they don't have the votes."

Robert L. Pierce of Menomonie, national committeeman; Mrs. Mary Ising of Oshkosh, national committeewoman, and Talbot Peterson of Appleton, state GOP chairman, said they would attend the meeting in Chicago Jan. 22-23 at which Burch's status is expected to be decided.

Peterson said he believed "Goldwater's conclusion is correct, based on what I know."

Annapolis Man Rare Winner in Tussle With U. S. Government

BY TOM STUCKEY

At the hearing, he was allowed to bring witnesses and introduce evidence. He countered the charges with the contention that he had disagreed with his first wife's views and that the disagreement had been so complete that it had led to their years of legal battling, including divorce. He produced testimony from two trips to the U. S. Supreme Court, to prove that he and a note from his ex-wife to was illegally deprived of his job support his argument.

No witnesses were produced against him, however, and he says he had no chance to refute the Navy's specifically the information given by anonymous informants.

3-Day Hearing

One month after the three-day hearing, the special board which had listened to the evidence ruled against him.

At this point, Greene, working as a draftsman in Annapolis for $5,000 a year, decided to appeal the ruling.

The first two rounds came off in U. S. District Court and the Circuit Court of Appeals and he lost both.

He carried the fight to the Supreme Court, and in 1959 the court struck down the industrial security program under which he had been denied clearance.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, writing the majority opinion, said Greene's hearing "failed to comport with our traditional ideas of fair procedure."

Won Case

Having won the case, Greene sought to regain the $49,960 he figured he had lost because of losing his job. The government refused to pay, and he again went to court.

On Feb. 17 this year, the Supreme Court again ruled in his favor and sent the case back to the Court of Claims to determine the amount of the settlement.

Looking back, Greene recalled with satisfaction the way most of his friends stuck by him.

And he says his two victories before the Supreme Court "speak well for our system."

Greene, 48, recalls the long battle without rancor. He is a stocky, witty man with graying hair. He speaks softly.

Greene, now the president of a concrete products firm, estimates the fight cost him thousands of dollars beyond the money he received in the settlement.

He relates that his first attempts to get his clearance restored and find out exactly why it had been revoked "ran into a frustrating wall of official naval silence. 'It was like punching feathers,' he says.

With the help of his employers and a friendly congressman, he pressed for a hearing for six months before the Navy finally agreed. Another six months elapsed before the hearing began and before the charges were disclosed.

First Wife

A substantial part of the charges was that Greene's first wife, from whom he had been divorced more than six years earlier in 1947, was an "ardent Communist" and that he had shared or been influenced by her beliefs and her friends.

"I don't know if she really was a Communist," says Greene and wife, Dorothy, and four children since he remarried. "She certainly had leftist beliefs."

William L. Greene of Annapolis, Md., displays part of the court record of his 11-year fight against the federal government. He carried his claim of unjust dismissal from his research job as a security risk to the U. S. Supreme court twice and won both times. He is getting $46,000 in back pay. (AP Wirephoto)

James C. Britt Gets Financial Post With Mead

DAYTON — Election of James C. Britt as assistant treasurer of Mead Corp. by the board of directors was announced by H. T. Mead, vice president-finance.

Britt came to Mead in 1958 as a member of the controller's staff. In 1961, he was named manager of cash and banking and in 1963, became assistant to the treasurer.

Following his graduation from Notre Dame University in 1953, Britt worked as a senior auditor for Arthur Young & Co., Toledo, Ohio. He joined Ottawa River Paper Co., in that city and was assistant to the treasurer when the firm became part of Mead.

Gilbert Paper Co., Menasha, is a subsidiary of Mead Corp.

Army Corporal Vows He Will Clear His Name

NEW YORK (AP) — Army Cpl. Dale McCushton, 32, of San Diego, Calif., returned to the United States after his release from a Turkish prison and vowed he would continue working to clear his name.

He arrived by plane in New York Wednesday night with his Italian-born wife and five children. "It feels great to be back," he said. "I couldn't be more happy — as the seven of us."

He said he had been acquitted of four of the five charges

U. S. Reaching Another Milestone in Economy

BY SYLVIA PORTER

As you read this, we are crashing through a milestone in economic history—a half-billion dollar annual rate in our personal income.

A $500 billion yearly personal income rate—representing the money we receive in the form of wages, salaries, rents, dividends, interest, professional fees, self-employed incomes, Social Security and other benefits—is just another statistic. It is a dramatic tribute to the greatest prosperity average American families ever have achieved. It indicates the extent to which we have pulled ahead of all other nations. It underlines the financial power the U. S. holds.

Within the lifetime of most of us, "billion" has become a familiar financial measurement—even though few of us understand just how big a billion dollars is. Now, we must become accustomed to "trillion" as a financial measurement.

Our total output of goods and services (Gross National Product) is well on the way to the $1 trillion mark. And our personal incomes also are crossing the magic half-trillion level, are moving toward the incompre-

Who gets what of today's $500 billion personal income rate?

Porter

How big is your share—as a wage or salary-earner, a business proprietor or professional person, a stockholder, landlord, retired person, etc.?

As a wage or salary-earner, you are getting the overwhelming share—67c out of each personal income dollar.

As a business proprietor or professional, you are getting the next biggest chunk—8c.

As a retired or disabled worker, you also are getting 8c through Social Security and/or other benefits.

Interest on savings accounts for a hefty 7 cents and dividends account for an additional 4 cents.

— Farm income, rent, and fringe benefits represent another 3 cents each of the personal income dollar.

Of course, you also are giving up some of this income in Social Security contributions. Here's a provocative breakdown of personal incomes, showing how much each significant segment has been rising in recent years.

| Type of Income | Percent Increase over 1963 | Percent Increase over 1959 |
|---------------------------|----------------------------|----------------------------|
| Wage & Salaries | 5.9 | 27.2 |
| Bus. & Prof. Inc | 4.5 | 11.7 |
| Soc. Sec. and Vet. Bens. | 4.1 | 41.0 |
| Interest | 9.5 | 52.3 |
| Dividends | 11.9 | 44.5 |
| Fringe Benefits | 7.7 | 34.6 |
| Farm Income | 3.1 | 10.5 |
| Rental Income | .8 | 4.2 |
| Total Pers. Income | 5.9 | 27.3 |

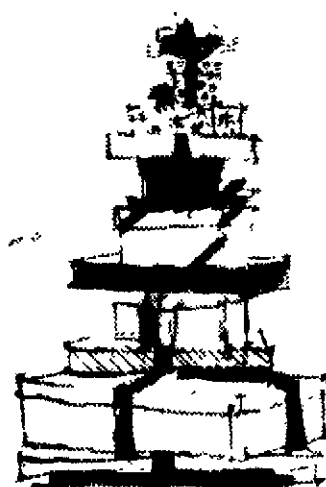

A capsule picture of financial America halfway through the decade of the 1960s can be seen in these few figures.

Just in the past five years, income we get from "non-work" has soared nearly 39 per cent and it is not an exaggeration to say that non-work is among the fastest growing "occupations" in the U. S.

Our incomes from interest have climbed rapidly, reflecting the rising level of interest rates paid on our ever-mounting total of savings.

NEENAH TEEN AGERS SPEAK OUT IN "YOUNG IDEAS"

Neenah High School Students Discuss: "Are Movie, TV Standards Declining?"

Milwaukee Sentinel staff writer Alida Johns was in this area recently putting searching questions about life to students of the different high schools. This week the spotlight moves to Neenah high. How several young people in this institution feel about the question of movie and TV standards will be expressed in their own words this Saturday, Dec. 5, in "Young Ideas," a stimulating Saturday Sentinel department. Don't miss these lively, informed statements of opinion.

Read "Young Ideas" every Saturday for interesting points of view by high schoolers on topics of special interest to the younger generation. Students from a different Wisconsin high school are interviewed each week.

Pontiff Asks Unity for Future of Human Race

Appeals to Leaders of All Religions to Join In Mutual Understanding

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
BOMBAY, India (AP) — Pope Paul VI met today with leaders of ancient oriental religions and told them all men must "begin to work together to build the common future of the human race."

Marking a new dimension in the outlook of the Roman Catholic Church, the Pope asked the sages of Hinduism, Islam, Buddhism, Zoroastrianism and other non-Christian faiths "Are we not all one in this struggle for a better world, in this effort to make available to all people those goods which are needed to fulfill their human destiny and to live lives worthy of the children of God?"

He paused, then added "We must come closer together. We must come together with our hearts, in mutual understanding, esteem and love."

On this, the second day of his historic four-day visit to India, where the Pope is being received with a welcome of phenomenal enormity and zest, he also had meetings with leaders of other Christian bodies.

His callers at the residence of Bombay's Roman Catholic archbishop included bishops and officials of the Church of South India, a historic merger involving about a million Protestants of formerly separate communions.

Also present for conversations initiated by the Pope were representatives of the ancient Mar Thoma Syrian Church, the Methodist Church in Southern Asia, the Anglican Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon, the Evangelical Lutheran Federation, the North India Provincial Synod, Methodist Church, and the National Christian Council of India.

The personal meetings with these churchmen, too, reflected the theme of Rome's modified stance — to make common cause and unifying overtures toward Christians outside the Roman Catholic fold.

Small Gatherings

In this region of the world inter-Christian alliance takes on heightened ramifications. For Roman Catholics constitute only

Nebraska Senator, Counsel Clash at Bobby Baker Quiz

Curtis Assails McLendon for Charging Sen. Williams Lied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The word of it," McLendon said Bobby Baker hearings exploded "There is not an ounce, not an into a shouting match today element of truth in it."

Curtis continued to demand that President Johnson's proposal to share federal tax revenues with the states deserves serious consideration.

Addressing a dinner meeting of the Council of State Governments, Nelson said, "The harsh fact is that the states are facing real and increasing financial problems which cry out for imaginative solutions."

Nelson added that he had not made up his mind on Johnson's proposal, which would return a percentage of federal tax levies to the states for unrestricted use. The senator said the plan would initially make $2 billion to $3 billion available to the states annually, but the figure would expand with the economy.

When Curtis continued to exclaim that McLendon had no right to make the statements he did about Williams, Pell said "Just because a man is a senator that doesn't make him a god."

Williams sat quietly while Curtis and McLendon exchanged sharp comments. During a lull, he commented that McLendon had a perfect right to state his understanding of the conversation.

"I want him to," said Williams.

Wants Transcript But, he added, "I will never sit with the Rules Committee again without a transcript of

Nelson Cites Necessity for Shared Taxes

Over $2 Billion U. S. Funds Available, Senator Declares

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said Wednesday the states are facing increasing financial problems and that President Johnson's proposal to share federal tax revenues with the states deserves serious consideration.

Addressing a dinner meeting of the Council of State Governments, Nelson said, "The harsh fact is that the states are facing real and increasing financial problems which cry out for imaginative solutions."

Nelson added that he had not made up his mind on Johnson's proposal, which would return a percentage of federal tax levies to the states for unrestricted use. The senator said the plan would initially make $2 billion to $3 billion available to the states annually, but the figure would expand with the economy.

One of the problems in the plan, Nelson said, would be a distribution formula. He said it had been suggested that the funds be allocated on a straight per capita basis.

Nelson said, however, that "careful consideration" should be given to a formula which would recognize a state's own effort to meet its responsibilities, and that such a formula should take into account each state's tax burden.

"It is simply untrue," Nelson said, that state governments are becoming less important as the federal government grows in influence.

State Governments "State governments are not withering away — they are flourishing," Nelson said.

"The simple fact," he continued, "is that state governments are more important to democracy today than at any time since the federal Constitution was written."

"They have many times greater responsibilities today in educating the young, hospitalizing the sick and mentally ill, maintaining law and order, controlling traffic, building highways, regulating trucks, utilities and insurance companies and conserving natural resources."

Nuclear Arms Ban Apparently he was referring to Peking's proposal for a world disarmament meeting, made after Red China exploded its first atom bomb.

For the Communist camp, he went on, "Our most important aim is to achieve a complete ban on nuclear weapons."

On the Congo, Brezhnev said "Lately the world learned of a new aggressive act by the colonizers."

He said Belgian paratroopers were transported to the Congo in U.S. planes with full approval of other NATO countries in "a surprising example of imperialist piracy."

2 East German Guards Caught as They Try To Flee Over Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Two East German border guards were caught by their Communist comrades early today as they tried to escape over the Berlin wall, West Berlin police reported.

Two guards discovered the pair hiding near the border fortifications in the north of the city. Apparently they were waiting for a chance to climb over to West Berlin.

The guards who found them fired several rounds from sub-machine guns, and the alarm brought 30 other guards to the scene. As West Berlin police and a detachment of French gendarmes appeared, the East Germans set off tear gas grenades to obscure the Westerners' vision.

When the smoke had cleared, one of the two captives was being carried away, apparently wounded. The other was led off.

2 Men Convicted of Soviet Spy Plot

Soviet Chauffeur and U. S. Engineer Face Sentencing

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A Soviet chauffeur and an American electronics engineer were convicted Wednesday night of hours before returning the verdict against the American, John W. Butenko, 39, and his co-defendant, Igor A. Ivanov, 34.

Butenko and Ivanov were convicted of conspiring to relay secret Air Force information to the Soviet Union and of conspiring to violate the law requiring foreign agents to register with the State Department. Butenko also was convicted of acting as an unregistered agent for the foreign power — the Soviet Union.

Returned to Jail Butenko, a bachelor of Russian descent, said nothing as the jury forelady, Miss Michilena M. Deluca, announced the verdict. But the strain of the grueling trial showed on his face as

Knowles Wants Legislature To Defer New College Plans

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov.-Elect Warren P. Knowles probably will ask the legislature next month to defer approval of new state-supported institutions of higher learning, pending completion of a "master plan" for Wisconsin higher education, that he believes may suggest significant departures from the present system.

At an impromptu press conference Wednesday night, Knowles declined to say specifically he will oppose the suggested new four-year state university in the Fox Valley area, but it was an inevitable deduction from his statement.

Knowles elaborated to reporters his worries, doubts and questions about the evolution of higher education programs and their exploding costs after he had spent three hours reviewing with Angus Rohwell, state superintendent of public instruction, the enormously increased operating fund and state school aid requests of that department.

The man who will take over the governorship next month and will recommend a fiscal program for the state for the next two years, indicated clearly he is troubled by heavy pressures for what he called more "brick and mortar" expenditures for new institutions at new locations, and said he is not yet convinced that the total educational need of the state or the major interests of Wisconsin will be best served in that direction.

At one point he said flatly: "We don't have the money." When he was reminded that virtually all recent higher education plant financing has been

BY TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Election of the first African Negro to be president of the U.N. General Assembly climaxes the rise of a once minor bloc to the most powerful voting force in the United Nations.

The choice of Ghana's Alex Quason-Sackey, flamboyant champion of black nationalism, opened an assembly session that will focus largely on African issues.

Quason-Sackey declared in his inaugural speech Tuesday that Africa "is steadily moving toward her determined goal of continental unity and total liberation."

This will be the African theme when the 115-nation assembly turns again to the stormy issues of white supremacy in South Africa.

The African bloc has grown from 2 nations to 34 in 19 years. It is teaming up with the 25 nation Asian bloc to pressure South Africa to abandon its apartheid policy of racial segregation.

"These Africans with the help they get from Asia and the Soviet bloc could get about anything they want if they would stop bickering among themselves," a Western diplomat commented recently.

Ready to Help North Viet Nam

Brezhnev Denounces Paratroops' Landing

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party chief, denounced today the Western paratroop landing in the Congo and also said the Soviet Union is ready to help North Viet Nam.

But, in reiterating stands already taken by the Kremlin, Brezhnev withheld any specific pledge of direct Soviet intervention in either area.

He called the paratroop landing in the Congo a "surprising example of imperialist piracy" and said Western aims there are doomed to failure.

Can't Be Indifferent On Viet Nam, he repeated the words of an "authorized statement" made a week ago by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

The Soviet Union cannot remain indifferent to the fate of a sister Socialist country and is prepared to render the necessary assistance to her. There was no elaboration by either Tass or Brezhnev.

Brezhnev spoke at a Soviet

Czechoslovak friendship meeting honoring visiting Czech President Antonin Novotny.

Brezhnev stressed that "the unity of the Socialist camp is strong against imperialism in the cause of peace and for the benefit of all mankind."

Brezhnev again denounced the proposed NATO multilateral nuclear force as "a dangerous game" to give West Germany access to nuclear weapons. Here he made his only mention of Red China, saying "Recently the Chinese have joined this view."

He said Belgian paratroopers were transported to the Congo in U.S. planes with full approval of other NATO countries in "a surprising example of imperialist piracy."

Two guards discovered the pair hiding near the border fortifications in the north of the city. Apparently they were waiting for a chance to climb over to West Berlin.

The guards who found them fired several rounds from sub-machine guns, and the alarm brought 30 other guards to the scene. As West Berlin police and a detachment of French gendarmes appeared, the East Germans set off tear gas grenades to obscure the Westerners' vision.

When the smoke had cleared, one of the two captives was being carried away, apparently wounded. The other was led off.

South Vietnamese Envoy Tells Of Activity of Northern Troops

BY SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Viet Nam sent 30,000 to 40,000 infiltrators into South Viet Nam during the past three years and the flow continues at a stepped-up pace, Ambassador Tran Thien Khiem said today.

The newly arrived South Vietnamese envoy said in an exclusive interview that the Ho Chi Minh Trail, passing from North Viet Nam through Laos, serves as the main road of infiltration.

Military Expert Khiem, bespectacled 39-year-old soldier trained by the French and Americans, is a lieutenant general who has served as commander-in-chief of the South Vietnamese armed forces and as his country's minister of defense.

He was one of the triumvirate along with Gen. Nguyen Khanh and Gen. Duong Van Minh the borders with Laos but there, which ruled South Viet Nam last are not enough troops for this summer before the formation of the present civilian government. How to stop the infiltration has been a perpetual worry of the Vietnamese general staff.

Khiem said in the interview, "We have been thinking about this for a long time and we are still thinking if we are not able to stop the infiltration completely, at least it must be slowed down."

"We have special forces on the borders with Laos but there are not enough troops for this summer before the formation of mountainous terrain which is hard to control."

Asked if stopping the infiltration would be decisive in turning the tide of battle in South Viet Nam, Khiem replied, "We do think that if we can succeed in stopping the infiltration it will have a very large impact."

The problem of infiltration was touched upon in a White House statement Tuesday which followed a White House meeting between President Johnson and U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor. It said there was "accumulating evidence of continuing and increased North Vietnamese support of the Viet Cong and of North Vietnamese forces in, and passing through, the territory of Laos in violation of the Geneva accords of 1962."

The State Department said Wednesday that the evidence of North Vietnamese support and infiltration into South Viet Nam

Lawrence Says

More at Stake Than Money in U.N. Dues Talks

Basic Issue Is Soviet Hostility To World Peace

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — The world isn't getting the truth about the real reason why Russia is refusing to pay assessments in the United Nations. Neither the United States nor any other western government has ventured to define the basic issue. There is, in fact, an ironic consistency in the Soviet's refusal to make payments on its debt of several million dollars to the United Nations. For the amounts owed by Russia were spent by the U. S. in an attempt to defeat the objectives of Moscow's expenditures of probably a billion dollars a year in carrying on revolutionary movements on nearly every continent.

Lawrence

The dispute over the payment of U. N. "dues" is a technical one. The Soviet Union has been keeping up with its regular dues but refuses to pay certain special "assessments" which have been levied in connection with the expenses incurred by the United Nations in trying to maintain peace in the Congo, the Middle East and other areas. The Soviet Union contends that it did not vote for such projects and is not obligated under the charter of the U. S. to pay for them. An "advisory" opinion obtained from the International Court of Justice declared that "assessments" for U. N. forces should be considered as obligatory dues. While this tends to uphold the concept that all assessments must be paid if a member is to be permitted to continue to vote in the General Assembly, the fact remains that there is no specific obligation on this point set forth in the charter of the organization itself.

U. N. Assessments

Not only is the Moscow government involved, but the other communist-block countries have been coerced by the Soviet regime into a refusal also to pay any assessments levied by the U. N. in connection with its peace-keeping operations.

Proposals have been advanced recently that the security council of the U. N. should have a voice in approving or disapproving the special assessments, but even in 1950 when this same council called upon the various member nations to send troops into Korea to repel an invasion, the Soviet Union took it upon itself to furnish arms and ammunition to the Red Chinese to carry on their invasion of Korea. No action was ever taken by the United Nations to expel the Soviet Union from the Security Council because of this act of treason to the organization.

The situation remains unchanged today. The Soviets still are engaged in a world-wide revolutionary movement which constitutes treason against the United Nations itself. The Communists are furnishing arms and supplies and stationing their agents in various countries in Latin America and Asia, as well as in Africa, all with the avowed purpose of stirring up trouble and overthrowing constituted governments. The United Nations for several years now has remained silent on this violation of its charter. Even the United States has not denounced such activity in explicit terms. Nor has it called upon the United Nations to obtain respect by the Soviet Union for the principles of the U. N. charter, which abounds in phrases about maintaining peace and respecting the sovereignty of member nations.

The Soviet Union owes the U. N. approximately $52.6 million, which is mostly in "assessments" for its share of the peace-keeping expenses in the Mideast and Africa. But this is a relatively small sum compared to the heavy expenditures by the Communists in their revolutionary activities.

It is the irresoluteness of the western nations and the failure to face up to the facts which are making a sham of the current debate over U. N. "assessments." For the real problem is not related to the mere payment of money. It is the attitude of the Soviet and Red China governments toward the peace of the world which is the real cause for concern.

There's a long battle ahead, and it will not be won until the Washington government takes off the gloves and gets into the debate with far more hard-hitting tactics than have been used before. What is really needed is an exposure of the facts concerning Soviet and Red Chinese infiltration and subversion, including financial support for student groups and other revolutionary bodies in many countries in the world where disorders have been going on for several years now.

The United Nations is hesitant to interfere in the internal affairs of any country, but when there is a threat to the peace of the world, it has felt that it has a right to interpose and to mobilize the forces of member nations in order to keep the peace. The principle has a far-reaching significance and could someday be brought to bear in all parts of the world.

So there's more at stake now in the question of payment of special assessments than merely support for the United Nations' treasury. The real issue is whether the free nations of the world are going to continue to pussyfoot and flounder in their relations with the Soviet Union instead of coming out in the open and setting forth the true facts about Soviet hostility to freedom and peace in the world.

West Point Band In Sunday Concert With Philharmonic

A double header will feature the weekly broadcast of the New York Philharmonic Sunday over WAPL Radio when the United States Military Academy Band joins the Philharmonic musicians. The West Point organization will join the Philharmonic for Hector Berlioz's seldom-played "Symphonie Funebre and Tri-omphale" with Lt. Col. William H. Schenkel director. This is the first time the cadet organization has played with the Philharmonic. The concert is heard direct from Lincoln Center of Performing Arts in New York City and exclusively in this area over WAPL. William Steinberg conducts the Philharmonic during his leave from the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Milton Cross is the intermission commentator.

Federal Employment Increases by 8,954

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal civilian employment increased 8,954 in October to a total of 2,470,330, the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures reported today. The largest increases during the month were in the Post Office Department, with a jump of 8,820, and the Commerce Department, with 1,685, the committee said.

Thursday, December 3, 1964 Appleton Post-Crescent B3

The biggest decreases were in payroll 1,733, and the Interior the Army, which cut its civilian Department, with a 907 drop.

Republicans Still Confused After Calamity

Party in Danger
Of Disintegration, Permanent Minority

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans, repudiated in most of the past 32 years about as thoroughly as possible in American politics, are still confused and divided almost a month after one of their worst calamities.

They need more than some kind of agreement among themselves to end their intraparty strife. They need a policy and an attitude giving voters far more confidence in them than has been demonstrated these past 32 years.

Only in this way can the two-party system work, with voters willing to entrust control and direction of the government to either party at fairly regular intervals.

Party in Danger

Otherwise, Republicans are doomed to remain a minority party in danger of disintegrating altogether.

The confusion and division were illustrated again this week when on the same day:

1. Sen. Barry Goldwater, defeated for the presidency in November, stood firm against any other Republicans' attempt to throw out his hand-picked chairman of the party's national committee, 38-year-old Dean Burch.

2. Charles H. Percy, the defeated Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, said he thought Burch no longer could successfully lead the party and called for a change in Republican policy.

Fervent Believer

Burch, fervent believer in Goldwater's brand of Republicanism, is inescapably linked with more than just the senator's disastrous 15-million vote defeat by President Johnson last month.

The Republicans lost more than the presidency. In Congress, where they had been a minority party since 1954, they became even more of a minority by losing 38 seats in the House and probably two in the Senate.

If the Republican National Committee fails to give Burch a vote of confidence when it meets next month, this can be interpreted as a repudiation not only of Goldwater and his kind of conservatism but of those sharing his views.

Goldwater said the anti-Burchers on the 132-member committee don't have enough votes to get rid of the young Tucson attorney whom he chose to head the committee after his own presidential nomination in July.

Good Reason

At that time the committee elected Burch to a four-year term at $30,000 a year, which would seem to give him good reason for thinking he had a right to want to make the committee stick to its contract.

Nevertheless, it would be embarrassing for him, the party, and any hope of party unity if a majority of the committee gave him a vote of no confidence and he still refused to step down. However, he has indicated he would resign if the committee voted no confidence.

And this is only part of the soul-searching going on within the Republican ranks.

For instance: Republican governors meet this Friday and Saturday in Denver to examine the party wreckage and try to think of some way to put it back on its feet.

Republicans have had small success wooing the voters in the years since 1932 when Franklin D. Roosevelt won the presidency and Democrats got overwhelming control of Congress.

Gronouski Says Public May be Critical of Stamp

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said today he would be very surprised if the new stamp of abstract art weren't controversial.

Gronouski made a verbal excursion into abstract art in a speech prepared for the dedication of the fine arts stamp at the National Gallery of Art.

The stamp, described by the post office as a red, blue and black melange of shapes, is taken from a painting by Stuart Davis, who died at the age of 69 last June.

Gronouski said he didn't mind criticism now and then — "my shoulders are broad" — and I think in the long run, our stamp program will be more imaginative, more meaningful and more diverse.

The department plans to print 120 million of the five-cent stamps. In recent years, there has been one stamp a year that reproduces the work of well-known American artist of the past.

What Is Darcura?

Centuries-old arts, crafts and weaving trades were practiced by the people of India from the days of Alexander's invasion in 327 B. C., through the invasions of the White Huns in the 5th and 6th centuries, the Turks in the 11th century, and Genghis Khan in 1219. Mysterious treasures of these arts were responsible for the seeking out of less circuitous routes to the Far East, for centuries, by the Old World traders.

The mills of India are richly endowed with the tradition and heritage of the original skills of the Far East, responsible for the arts of dyeing, weaving and developing unusual colors and designs in Cotton, Silk and Wool.

DARCURA a magnificent blend of Egyptian long staple Cotton and fine Worsted yarns, woven by one of the World's largest mills, the sole producer of shirtings for the Indian Army.
